Sales Tax 'Deader Than Mackerel'

State Income Tax Revived

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Minus one option, a new House-Senate conference committee meets today to sift through tax alternatives left by the committee it replaced in search of some lasting solution to Ohio's deepening financial crisis.

The appointment of a fresh, six-man joint committee came late Tuesday after the House overwhelmingly rejected legislation to finance state government with an increase in the sales tax. The vote against the plan was 66-28.

AFL - CIO President Frank

King, until recently an unyielding opponent of any new taxes but those levied against Ohio business and industry, called the issue of a sales tax hike, for this session of the General Assembly at least, "deader than a mackerel."

Today marks the 133rd day Ohio has been without a firm tax program for the 1971-73 biennium. The state has been paying its bills since the start of the two-year period July 1 by a series of temporary appropriations. The sixth expired at midnight, Oct. 31. The seventh — covering the entire month of November — has been readied by the House for passage should it be needed. It has already cleared the Senate.

Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, one of the newly appointed conference committee members, said in spite of Tuesday's vote the work of the committee "shouldn't go beyond this week."

Joining Maloney on the committee are Sens. Paul Gillmor, R-12 Tiffin, and Anthony Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, the minority leader. House members are: Reps. Norman Murdock, R-70 Cincinnati; E.W. Lamson, R-38 Jefferson, and A.G. Lancione, D-30 Bellaire, House leader of the Democrats.

Murdock, Calabrese and Lancione are holdovers from the original conference committee. The three new appointments have at one time or another during the eight months of tax debate placed themselves in the income tax camp.

"The conferees are going to have to put together the best possible income tax bill, and as far as I'm concerned, the best possible one is in the Senate Ways and Means Committee," said Maloney, its chairman.

That measure, calling for a 1-to-3 per cent tax on personal income and a 3½-6½ per cent tax on corporations, was set aside two months ago when efforts to line up Senate support for it consistently fell short.

Maloney said committee talks today would be spent searching out the points "on which we cannot agree" with no vote (Continued on Page 24)

Find Large Pay Policy Loophole

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board has left itself a loophole that may stretch wide enough to squeeze a 12-per-cent pay raise through. But it may take months to find out.

The board's general rule is that raises in new contracts can't exceed 5.5 per cent a year, and raises in old contracts might be rolled back if "unreasonably inconsistent" with that guide.

But the initial policy adopted

Monday night also contains what one source calls "the reality clause," or loophole.

It says this: "In reviewing new contracts and pay practices, the Pay Board shall consider ongoing collective bargaining and pay practices and the equitable position of the employees involved, including the impact of recent changes in the cost of living upon employee's compensation." An identical loophole is supplied for existing contracts as well.

What that means, exactly, is unclear.

But, according to briefers who allow themselves to be identified only as "informed sources" or "sources in a position to know," the purpose is to allow the board to approve higher raises when circumstances warrant.

How high or under what circumstances still is unknown. But they conceded, when questioned by a newsman, that the loophole might well have enough stretch in it to pass through recent settlements in the rail industry, calling for raises of one per cent per month for 42 months.

Although the rail settlements are more than double the 5.5-per-cent guide, they came after the rail workers had gone through a long period of rapidly rising prices with no raise at all.

Roundtown

DECEMBER House of the Month for the South Central Ohio Preservation Society's choice, is the Clark-May house museum of the Pickaway County Historical Society. A pamphlet printed by the SCOPS reveals this information and notice that the building on the corner of Union and Scioto Sts. is one of the most beautiful houses in the SCOPS area.

TICKETS for next Friday's performance of "South Pacific" have been sold out. Advance sale of tickets for the Roundtown Players' first musical production is proving quite successful. According to George Ganley, players' president, tickets for the Saturday evening performance "are limited" and the Sunday matinee advance sales "look promising." The Rogers and Hammerstein musical opens next Wednesday in the Memorial Hall theater. A treat for patrons this year will be the new theater seats that were recently installed.

VARIOUS reports have been made to the Herald office to clear up the mystery of the unidentified flying object seen around Ashville Saturday. The new reports, although not quite as exciting, are more credible. Saturday was a cloudy day, and a heavy cloud ceiling was over the area at nightfall. Saturday was also when one of Circleville's businesses kept later hours and brought in a spotlight to attract customers. The bright beacon light shot a beam far into the sky, illuminating a section of the cloud covering "in circles" as it turned. Other Ashville residents who saw the strange light have determined that this was the source of the UFO report. (Continued on Page 2)

New Banknotes

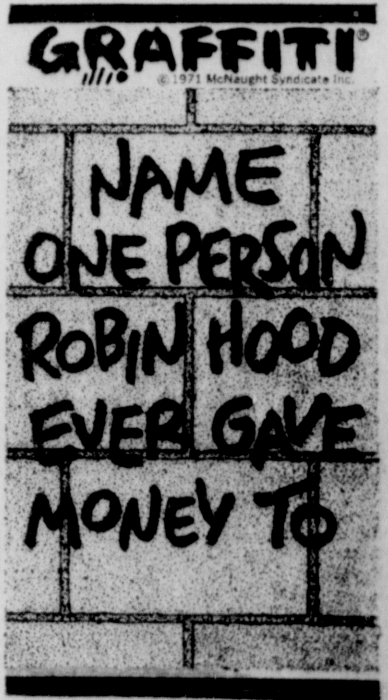

For Britain Multicolored

LONDON (AP) — British money went almost psychedelic today. The Bank of England issued new 5 pound notes tinted with blue, gold, red and multicolored patterns.

"The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street seems to have been down the King's Road," said one newspaper.

The old 5-pound notes are a sedate blue with the Queen's portrait and a picture of Britannia.

The new ones are part of a series of historical scenes and might right political sentiments in the European Common Market, which Britain is in the process of joining. The notes carry the portrait of the Duke of Wellington who beat Napoleon at Waterloo.

Food Price Predictions Upset By Pay Hike Discord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor disagreements over Pay Board guidelines on wage increases have upset Agriculture Department economists who are trying shakily to predict how much food costs may rise next year.

The department says, however, that plentiful supplies of such farm products as pork and grain point to an over-all retail food-price rise this year of 3 per cent, compared with a 5.5-per-cent hike in 1970.

Looking ahead to 1972 is not so easy. The department said Tuesday in a report that retail food prices depend much on how Phase 2 of the Nixon administration's economic plan is carried out.

"Phase 1 of the wage-price freeze was scheduled to end on Nov. 14 and the operating rules in Phase 2 are still being worked out, so the price outlook is uncertain," officials said.

Although price-control guidelines are pending for the second phase, labor leaders have served notice against the 5.5-per-cent wage-increase restriction laid down by the Pay Board.

Looking ahead to the first half of 1972, food prices in grocery stores likely will increase from current levels with pork, fresh fruit and vegetables and eggs leading the way in response to smaller prospective supplies, the report said.

Fresh fruit, vegetables and eggs are exempt from the current freeze, and retail cuts of pork are far below the legal ceiling, officials said.

"Increases in prices of other foods will depend largely on the guidelines in Phase 2 and the reactions of consumers and marketing firms to them," the department said.

Consumers are expected to spend a record $120.6 billion at food stores this year, compared with $114.3 billion in 1970.

Farmers, meanwhile, are feeling the continued pressure of middlemen on prices they receive for raw products, which are not covered by the price freeze.

A "market basket" of food items in September cost an annual rate of $1,252 in retail stores, down $12 from August but nearly 2 per cent more than a year earlier.

Farmers during the month received $471 as their share of consumer spending for the market-basket list, down $15 from August. The middleman's share rose $3 during the month to a yearly rate of $781.

Trial Date For KSU Cases Set

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Nov. 22 has been set as the new date for the start of the trials of 23 persons indicted by a special state grand jury which investigated the May 1-4, 1970, disorders at Kent State University.

Portage County Common Pleas Court Judge Edwin Jones set the date Tuesday after the 6th U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati issued an order giving the state court five days to set a new trial date.

The appeals court turned down a request by defense counsel for a delay in the start of the trials. However, defense attorney Ben Shearer said he will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to stay the start of the trials pending an appeal.

The attorney is asking the high court to reverse the appeals court ruling of Oct. 22 which upheld the indictments of 25 persons by the special grand jury.

The appeals court issued two other orders Tuesday in connection with the Oct. 22 rulings. It ordered destruction by Monday of the special grand jury report which accompanied the indictments. The court had upheld the defense contention that the report, which was critical of the university administration, might prejudice a trial jury hearing the cases.

The appeals court also granted a stay order to permit appeals to the U.S. Supreme Court from Judge Jones' order banning the 300 grand jury witnesses from revealing their testimony in public.

Gilligan To OK Interim Budget To Assure Pay Day

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan said today he would sign an interim budget for November, assuring a Friday pay-day for some 48,000 state employees.

Gilligan, at a news conference, said the House was expected to approve a $217 million measure in an afternoon session. It cleared the Senate two weeks ago.

Gilligan met earlier in the day with both Republican and Senate legislative leaders. He said he had "every indication" that a permanent budget tax bill would be voted upon during the week.

He said legislators asked him to sign the interim budget.

"I have no intention of letting some 50,000 state employees and their families go without pay day Friday," he said.

A state personnel department report recently showed Ohio had just over 48,000 employees at the end of September.

An interim budget, was reported out of the House Finance Committee after the Gilligan news conference. It would be the seventh consecutive temporary budget since the fiscal year started July 1.

Lore Denies Wrongdoing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The former investment officer of the School Employees Retirement System denied Tuesday that he had done anything improper in arranging loans from the system to clients of Crofters, Inc.

James B. Lore, the former SERS official, is on trial for bribery with Gerald Donahue, Sidney Griffith and Harry Groban, officials of Crofters, a money-finding firm.

Lore testified that when loans for development on U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Renewal projects were first called to his attention, he thought it was a very good investment for the system. He said the loans were fully guaranteed with the full faith and credit of the federal government.

Rabbit Population Reported Higher

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Wildlife says hunters going to the fields Monday for the start of the upland game season will find the rabbit population "significantly higher" than last year, especially in the southern half of the state.

The numbers of pheasant and quail will be about the same as last year, with pheasants most numerous in the central and west central counties and quail in the southwest, south central and west central.

Nixon Launches Election Campaign, Hedges On Agnew

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon has launched his 1972 campaign symbolically but unofficially with a tribute to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

But he stopped well short of promising Agnew a place on the Republican ticket.

Appearing at Republican fund-raising dinners in New York and Chicago Tuesday night, Nixon also called for renewal of the embattled foreign aid program.

And in Chicago he defended his decision to go ahead with last Saturday's Amchitka nuclear test as being vital to national security. Noting the test had been challenged by many environmentalists, he said:

"Unless we have an adequate program to defend the United States, we won't have any environment to protect."

Nixon and Agnew made one of their rare joint appearances at the Chicago dinner, where

The President noted that Agnew was celebrating his 53rd birthday, and said:

"... This country is fortunate in having as its vice president a man who is loyal, a man who is courageous, and a man who is competent in handling his duties at home, and a man who with great dignity and great ability has represented America in 25 countries since he has been vice president."

Nixon made no mention of Agnew's political future, the subject of recurrent speculation. But for that matter, neither did the President acknowledge his own anticipated role as head of the 1972 GOP ticket.

In Atlanta, Sen. Barry Goldwater said Agnew should not and will not be replaced as Nixon's running mate.

"If I had to guess right now, I'd have to guess Agnew was more popular in the Republican party than Mr. Nixon," Goldwater told a news conference.

The senator from Arizona, 1964 GOP presidential standard-bearer, was in Atlanta for one of the 18 nationwide Republican dinners connected by closed-circuit television with the $500-a-plate Chicago and New York gatherings.

Agnew told diners in Chicago that the occasion marked the proper time "to launch a united effort to urge a great President to seek a second term."

The vice president also called for the election of a Republican-controlled Congress in 1972.

Within four hours, Nixon appeared at two "Salute to the President" dinners 1,000 miles apart and spoke via closed-circuit television to GOP contributors in 18 other cities.

The exercise—"cross-country heartburn," master of ceremonies Bob Hope termed it—was part of an effort to raise $5 million. (Continued on Page 24)

Rehnquist Foes Lash Statement By Court Hopeful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers union, has assailed Supreme Court nominee William H. Rehnquist as possessing "neither the breadth of vision nor the humanity which is required of a Supreme Court justice."

In testimony prepared for the Senate Judiciary Committee today, Woodcock said Rehnquist's record is "consistently far-right."

As an example, the union president's testimony went on, Rehnquist once took exception to a Washington newspaper editorial opposing nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the high court.

Woodcock said Rehnquist felt the paper sought a "restoration

Reds Strike Near Capital Of Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacked the Phnom Penh airport and a radio transmitting station near the Cambodian capital early today, and the Cambodian command said at least 25 persons were killed and about 30 wounded.

In Vietnam, a politician reported under consideration for the premiership was assassinated in Saigon, five Americans died in a helicopter crash, a booby trap killed two U.S. soldiers near Hue, and U.S. planes made their 74th attack of the year inside North Vietnam.

The two attacks in Cambodia were coordinated. About fifty 100-pound rockets hit the military airport shortly after midnight, and at the same time sappers moving behind a rocket barrage assaulted the transmitting station nine miles northwest of the airport.

A spokesman for the Cambodian command, Lt. Col. Am Rong, said at least six persons, including five women, were killed in the shelling of the airport and others were killed at the transmitting station.

The politician assassinated in Saigon was Prof. Nguyen Van Bong, chairman of the anti-Communist Progressive Nationalist Movement. Two pounds of hidden plastic explosive blew up his automobile as he was going from his office to his home at noon.

A bodyguard and the chauffeur were also killed, and eight Vietnamese were wounded, including a second bodyguard and seven bystanders.

Bong, 42, was director of a training institute for civil servants. His party, which he once described as "Loyal opposition" to President Guyen Van Thieu, won 15 of the 159 seats in the lower house of the National Assembly last August.

Informed sources said Thieu was "considering offering Bong the post of premier or another high cabinet position in an attempt to get broader political support."

William E. Dudding, 29, Kingston, was bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury today by Circleville Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb.

Dudding was arrested Oct. 29 and charged with rape. He allegedly accosted a woman in front of the American Hotel and pulled her into the alley behind the VFW building where the attack took place.

Dudding entered a plea of innocent at the preliminary hearing held today in Municipal Court.

Judge Lamb continued bond at $5,000. Dudding is presently in jail.

Foreign Aid Vote Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Temporary life for foreign aid headed for a vote in the house today as the Senate continued work on a new and smaller assistance program.

The House leadership urged foreign aid opponents to save their cuts for a regular bill and to approve a continuing resolution—funding the program on a temporary basis past the Nov. 15 expiration date.

But some feared the House may not go along with the request. The foreign aid program was left in limbo Oct. 29 when the Senate voted to end more than two decades of foreign assistance.

On Tuesday, the Senate began debate on a $2.3-billion program—a $1.1-billion economic assistance measure and a military aid program of just under $1.2 billion.

The continuing resolution before the House would keep foreign aid, defense and the anti-poverty programs going at their present levels until Congress adjourns after passing regular appropriations bills for them.

But Senate Democratic leaders have vowed to block the House continuing resolution despite an appeal from Secretary of State William P. Rogers that payrolls cannot be met past Nov. 15 without it.

The Senate's timetable for work on the two regular foreign aid bills called for final action by the end of the week.

Even if the Senate acted that fast, the House—where leaders went a $3-billion program—and Senate almost certainly could not work out a final new foreign aid authorization bill before the program expires.

Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird met with Republican senators Tuesday in an attempt to boost the Senate bills as close as possible to the $2.9-billion bill killed earlier by the Senate.

Scioto Society Report Plans, Play's Progress

A progress report was given to members at the Scioto Society Inc. at a Tuesday evening dinner meeting held in Pickaway County at the L-K Restaurant.

Finding funds to proceed with building of the amphitheatre on the slopes of Sugarloaf Mountain in northeastern Ross County remains the big issue before the organization, but members hope that applications for a Public Works Impact Project grant will be approved. Executive Vice President Rusty Mundell has received the support of Senators William Saxbe and Robert Taft and Ohio Representative William Harsha in working for the grant for this project.

Treasurer's Office System Draws Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Examiners in the office of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson have criticized methods used by the treasurer's office under the previous administration for securing state investments and for distributing the interest earned from these investments.

In both instances, the state examiners recommended today that the attorney general be asked to give opinions regarding the methods.

The examiners' audit was for a period Jan. 1, 1970 through Jan. 10, 1971. Records showed that on Jan. 10, the treasurer had a total of $341.1 million invested in securities. Of this, $199.1 million was held in New York banks.

"However," the examiners said, "the treasurer was holding trust receipts issued by Columbus banks as evidence of ownership of the securities. The examiners could not secure certifications from the New York banks since they held these securities in the name of the Columbus banks."

The examiners recommended the attorney general be asked to give an opinion "as to whether the procedure now used provides legal proof of ownership of said securities by the state in case the local banks might fail."

On the distribution of interest earned on state investments, the examiners said this had been accomplished for years by the state treasurer "on an arbitrary basis."

The examiners recommended the attorney general be asked to determine if the method used was proper and did not contravene any sections of the Ohio Revised Code.

Nixon Gets Medic Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has handed President Nixon a $3.8-billion plan to speed training of doctors and nurses under a new formula that designers say would end a "disaster-derby" competition for medical-school funds.

Although the two-bill package would authorize about twice what Nixon had sought, congressional sponsors say they expect the President will sign the legislation in view of what they call serious health-manpower shortages and widespread financial trouble experienced by the nation's medical schools.

The House completed congressional action Tuesday on the proposed three-year federal spending program. It includes special incentives for institutions to shorten training by a year while boosting enrollments and developing new types of health workers such as doctors' assistants.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chief drafters of the massive measures to help the nation's 105 medical schools, described the legislation as a major response to a health-care crisis.

Finland's Max Jakobson Favored To Succeed Thant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Red China's arrival in the United Nations is likely to boost the candidacy of Max Jakobson of Finland to succeed Secretary-General U Thant, according to diplomats whose governments maintain close relations with Peking.

The Chinese reportedly will give priority to the choice of a new secretary-general, who must be approved by all five permanent members of the Security Council, including China. The diplomats said the Peking regime has indicated it will not oppose Jakobson, who has wide support among African and Asian as well as European nations.

Jakobson, Finland's U.N. ambassador, is one of four or five leading contenders for the job. Britain and the United States are known to favor him.

Q: Are fringe benefits such as pension plans, vacation and health insurance limited by the 5.5-per-cent ceiling?

A: Yes, but the sources said the Pay Board does not expect this to have much effect on the pay portion of agreements because fringe benefits usually increase in line with pay.

Q: What will be the effect of the rulings on the present dock strikes and coal strike?

A: The board has not considered any specific cases. "You just can't anticipate everything," one source said. "I don't have the slightest idea how the board is going to react," said another.

Q: How final is the board's policy statement?

A: It has no legal force. The board meets again at 2 p.m. Thursday to attempt to reduce the general policies to specific, legally binding directives. But one source cautioned that it could take months to settle everything.

Name Martin As Slayer Of Yablonskis

WASHINGTON Pa. (AP) — With testimony in his murder trial barely under way, Aubran W. Martin has been named as one of three hired assassins of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

The accusation against Martin was made by Claude E. Vealey, 23, a confessed participant in the slayings of Dec. 31, 1969, and a key prosecution witness.

Vealey told a jury of seven women and five men after testimony opened Tuesday that he, Martin and Paul Gilly, all of Cleveland, were paid $5,200 from an unknown source to kill Yablonski, who had just lost a bitter election for UMW president, and his wife Margaret and daughter Charlotte.

Also charged with the murders are Gilly's wife, Annette, and her father, Silous Huddleston, president of a UMW local in La Follette, Tenn.

Repeatedly referring to Martin as "the baby-faced killer," Washington County Asst. Dist. Atty. Richard A. Sprague, the prosecutor, told the jury he would prove Martin joined in "lurking like vultures and birds of prey for the purpose of rubbing out the Yablonski family."

Vealey, 27-year-old convicted burglar, was the second of 18 prosecution witnesses to testify. Kenneth Yablonski, a local lawyer, told of finding the bodies of his parents and his sister six days after they were slain.

of the Chinese delegation. It left Peking Tuesday and is due in New York on Thursday.

When Jakobson first declared his candidacy, a number of Arab delegates expressed reservations because of his Jewish ancestry. But African diplomats who support the Arabs on Middle East questions say that when Finland was a member of the Security Council, Jakobson "always voted objectively" on Middle East questions.

Jakobson's supporters claim that the reason he is such a strong candidate is because he is considered forceful enough to "give a new sense of purpose and direction, and bring a new vitality to the United Nations."

Ross Jury Frees Man With Case Pending Locally

A Columbus man who has a case in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court pending, was found innocent Monday by a Ross County jury of shooting with intent to wound.

Allen Thomas Bush was charged with shooting at Deputy Finos H. Aldridge of the Ross County Sheriff's Department last April while the officer was driving south on patrol along Route 23. The shooting was alleged to have occurred near the Holiday Inn while Bush was northbound on the highway.

Bush's charge in the local court is for carrying concealed 22 caliber pistol in his auto when in Pickaway deputies stopped him near Gold Cliff park, reportedly fleeing the Ross County officer.

Four days of testimony were required to complete the Ross County trial which began last Wednesday. Assistant prosecutor for that county, Richard trial that proving a charge based on circumstantial evidence was always difficult.

The prosecution's evidence included testimony by Bureau of Criminal Investigation experts that lead was found in scrapings taken from a dent in the cruiser and that a paraffin test of Bush's right hand showed traces of nitrate. Bush is presently free under $500 cash bond to Pickaway County. He is expected to be sought for hearing on the local charge soon.

Weary Of Worrying

Funny how ignorance, or lack of it, changes lifestyles. Gardeners and farmers used to spray everything in sight, secure in their determination no pests were going to attack their plants. People ate various kinds of fish because they liked the flavor and didn't even think about what the fish might have ingested.

School kids chewed ravenously on their lead pencils without concern for their intestinal environment. Then came the age of enlightenment.

Pesticides might kill more than pests, it was averred. Farmers and gardeners began to worry and bans were imposed.

The great mercury scare arose, especially in connection with several kinds of fish. Fish lovers worried.

Lead pencils were found to contain dangerous levels of lead (not in the "lead," which is really graphite, but in the lacquer).

If the kids didn't worry too much about that, their parents did.

Now everyone is worried. About time for a medical authority to remind us that worrying isn't good for the health, either. Then we can all go back to doing things which aren't good for us, and not worry about it.

Capital Failure

A nation's capital ought to be a showplace where both formality and the uniqueness of the people combine to impress the visitor and provoke pride in the host citizens.

Washington, D. C., certainly has the physical attributes for this formula. Its magnificent buildings, monuments and heritage laid out in a unique physical plan all add to its attractiveness.

Violent crime has robbed Washington of its polish and replaced it with a cover of soot. This year is turning out to be one of the worst on record. Thus far, 230 persons have been murdered in the capital this year, with two months yet to go.

That is a record which already surpasses the previous high of 228 homicides recorded in all of last year. It is not a record which will encourage many to go to Washington.

Even those who work there, regardless of how high their station, have found no immunity from the blight which has stained the capital's otherwise pretty face.

Lead Poisoning

Lead is a maleficent uninvited guest of the human system which can attack the kidneys and central nervous system on the way to its kill, unless it is forcibly evicted by medication.

The No. 1 poisoner of children is aspirin, but lead ranks high enough to be considered a poisoner. In the spring and fall the eating of some plants by children can be a problem.

Most of the children who eat poison are under four. In aspirin there is a built-in safety factor. Flavored children's aspirin is one-third the strength of the adult kind, and there are fewer in each bottle.

The taste of lead which attracts infants is a mystery, but children do eat it. A popular way for infants to contract lead poisoning is by eating paint which is peeling off walls.

The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is engaged in making some tests of children suspected of having contracted lead poisoning from paint. There are plans to expand these to obtain more definitive results.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

If you have a secret but feel you simply have to blab it to somebody, tell it to a woman over 80. At that age she is beyond surprise, is well aware of the ironies of life, and glad to have something she can keep to herself.

The easiest way to get revenge on a wife is to tell her that her snoring has been getting louder lately.

Whatever happened to topless waitresses? Their vogue seems to be over—and high time for it, too. Being served by a topless waitress in a public place makes about as much sense as giving a small boy an ice cream cone full of wax.

This is the time of year when most of the touted running quarterbacks have their hands full of crutches instead of footballs.

No matter how angry a woman is with a man, she will never leave him as long as she still enjoys eating an artichoke with him. There are few things lonelier in life than having to eat an artichoke all by yourself.

A junior executive is a young guy who carries two brief cases to work. One contains the newspaper he reads on the train into town, the other holds his lunch.

Never lend money to a man with a waxed mustache. Anybody who takes the time to wax his mustache can't be putting in enough time on his job.

Anybody still alive who can remember when more women than men wore girdles? One of the late W.C. Fields' funniest lines was his deadpan advice on how to cure insomnia: "Get more sleep."

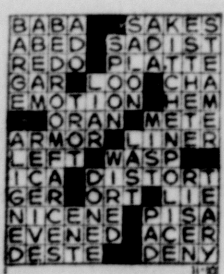

When you can't make heads or tails out of what a book critic writes about a book, there isn't much point in reading the book yourself. One confused person is enough.

Everybody has heard of the sycamore tree, but two out of three people wouldn't be able to identify a sycamore tree if it fell on them. Isn't it odd that the more we try to save nature, the less we know about it?

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I had a war injury and now need to have a skin graft. Do these always take? I worry about the possibility of having to have this done over and over again.

Mr. S. W., Tex.

Dear Mr. W.: You are surrounded in your hospital by highly trained, skillful surgeons. You can be certain that with modern techniques for skin grafting, the chances are great that the graft will take and there will be no need for repeated operations.

Many readers have been interested in the different types of skin grafts. The grafts vary in thickness; some are called full-thickness grafts, others are thin-plat grafts. The choice of graft depends on the area that must be recovered. Antibiotics and other treatments protect the graft against infection. The results are often spectacular and the cosmetic effect can be excellent.

What is the present attitude toward the home treatment of the sprained foot? Should one try to "walk it off?"

Mr. H. Y., N.C.

Dear Mr. Y.: It is a great mistake to try to self-diagnose and self-treat a foot sprain or injury. Even doctors refrain from "guessing" if an injury is mild, moderate or severe. Certainly you would be taking a great risk in trying to exercise a strain or a sprain of the ankle without knowing if a fracture is present.

Walking on such an injury can only invite prolonged incapacitation even if a tiny bone break or a tear in the ligament has occurred.

Stay off the foot. Apply cold compresses at first to stop any inner bleeding and to keep the swelling to a minimum. Then the doctor's advice must be sought and followed. The decision to use adhesive tape, supporting stockings, or mild exercise should depend entirely on his judgment.

Is a needle biopsy of the liver dangerous? It has been suggested to my husband.

Mrs. O. R. W., Tenn.

Biopsy of the liver is a procedure that is safe in experienced hands. It is painless and may be of extreme importance in verifying suspected disease of the liver. Through a needle, a small quantity of liver tissues is extracted. This is then examined carefully under the microscope. There are many other tests that establish a "profile" of the liver to provide the exact diagnosis and to direct treatment.

Perk Attends Council Meeting

CLEVELAND Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk attended a city council meeting Monday night — the first time a mayor has been to a council meeting since Feb. 22 — and was greeted by a standing ovation.

He pledged what he termed a "new spirit of cooperation" between the city administration and council and said no new legislation would be drawn up without first consulting council leaders.

Among actions by council was the approval by a 32-1 vote of the long-delayed bill to permit the city to accept $9.7 million in model cities funds.

Master Appointed In Border Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court referred Tuesday to a special master a new complaint by Ohio regarding its boundary with Kentucky.

Ohio contends that the boundary should be fixed at either the middle of the Ohio River or the low-watermark on the northern shore as it existed in 1792. Kentucky has described the claims as "legally baseless."

Business Aids Ecology

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
At the time of the Earth Day ecological rallies on the campuses, which featured Left-leaning attacks on businessmen for "raping" the environment, this column insisted that if the earth were to be saved, from drowning in waste the industrialists would have to do the job. Since then we have had a hard time keeping up with the ecological news from the business world, which dribbles out in bits and pieces that receive little attention from the so-called liberals. Isolated items may not seem important, but the sum total, reckoned at any given month's end, is nonetheless impressive.

Not so long ago we wrote about the Boeing Company's plan to take the waste of the entire city of Portland, Oregon, and recycle it for use on desert land east of the Cascade Mountains. It seemed a unique story. Now I learn that the small Shenandoah Valley town of Craigsville, Va. (population: 978), plans to make a good living from the garbage of the Washington-Baltimore area.

Using an abandoned cement plant as a recycling center, the town hopes to gain a million-dollar payroll from conversion operations such as segregating steel cans by magnets. The old cans will be incinerated in the cement plant kilns to make magnetite, which is used as a slurry in the processing of coal. (Coal, having a lower specific gravity than magnetite, floats to the top of the slurry for easy removal.)

Craigsville is certain that its market for magnetite will be a good one, for nearby coal fields are currently importing 2,500 tons of magnetite from Sweden at $30 to $40 a ton. Much of the garbage residue left after segregating metal and glass objects will be shredded in the cement plant grinders into a growing medium for mushrooms.

Picking another item at random, there is the Burlington Northern Railroad's land management plan for eastern Montana. The railroad owns open strip coal lands, some of which were mined in the Nineteen Twenties. Strip areas that have already been devastated will be reclaimed to useful purposes, and the leases for future operations will be subject to ecological considerations aimed at restoring the soil to good grazing intensity. Burlington Northern has a record of achievement in removing diesel oil from drainage waters in Montana.

Perhaps the most promising of all the ecological developments is the lower Delaware Valley venture called Pureland. A joint undertaking of the Landtect Corporation of Philadelphia and the State Mutual Life Assurance Company of Worcester, Mass., which have acquired some 3,000 acres on the New Jersey side of the Delaware-Camden area, Pureland hopes to become the first ecologically planned and pollution-controlled industrial park in the nation.

The idea is to create a mixed area of heavy, medium and light industry with Jersey Turnpike and deepwater shipping facilities that will nip every sort of pollution problem in the bud. By using presently available methods, the Pureland proprietors say they can pre-plan the virtual elimination of water, air, soil, noise, glare, vibration, odor, thermal and esthetic pollution, thus creating an ecologically balanced industrial park smack in the center of some of the dirtiest tidewater industries in the nation. If Pureland can do what is planned for it, it will become a benchmark for industry everywhere.

We could extend this column in several directions, from the recycling drive of the aluminum industry (collections of old cans for 1971 should reach 300,000,000) to the American Conservative Union's plan for taxing automobile owners in accordance with the pollution rate of their exhausts as measured by periodic inspection. (Why doesn't some state legislature take that up?) The main point, however, is the important one: the control of the environment is being actively pushed by those very elements whom the Left, just a year and one half ago, said would never, never do it.

Urge Urban Park System

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—In the future, state parks should be planned where the people are located, Gov. John Gilligan has told the Ohio Parks and Recreation Association.

Seventy per cent of the people of Ohio live in urban areas where the majority of families earn no more than $7,500 a year, he said.

"For those lower income urban residents, the state parks might as well be located on the moon," he said Monday.

Gilligan praised existing park facilities and pledged to support them, but he said more planning and money was needed to develop urban park land.

The cost of acquiring urban land for parks is much higher, the governor said, but the greater expenditure "may well buy land that gives more satisfaction to more people because it is accessible to them."

Members of the British House of Commons are paid only $7,500 a year.

William Clark, John Lowe and Edward Imler, three boys who thought the celebration of Halloween meant burning the Mason Brothers thermometer at the traction station, were each fined $5 and ordered to pay to Mason Brothers an additional $1.25 each to pay for the item. The youths had begun their prank by lighting matches beneath the bulb to watch it rise, then they gathered a bunch of newspapers beneath the thermometer and set them on fire.

A little note to women as appeared in the Herald in 1926: "Because it's the fashion, they wear clothes so few, if 'twas poverty made 'em, a howl would ensue."

A new whole wheat bread was manufactured and sold by the Fritz Steam Bakery, made from the famous Enright flour. It was considered by many physicians to have real value as a health food. The price? 10 cents a loaf.

A blaze damaged the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Merriman, 221 S. Scioto St. Timbers set in the chimney had ignited from a furnace. The home had recently been remodeled with duplicate of the county was hardwood floors, veranda, back screened in porch, newly painted and decorated.

Dwight Weiler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Weiler, E. Franklin St., performed on his violin over the radio station WLW in Cincinnati where he was a student at the conservatory of Music.

Jacob Bowsher, Route 2, Kingston, offered for sale a two-roll Appleton corn husker, like new.

Two schools in Clearcreek District, Stoutsville and Oakland, were to be reopened after final count of the vote for the 3 mill tax levy showed that it passed by 13 votes. The schools had been closed since September for lack of funds after the issue had been defeated three times.

RAILROADS WERE BIG TAXPAYERS in Pickaway County. In 1926, the Norfolk & Western, Columbus Railway Light and Power Co., Pickaway County, Pennsylvania, a Railroad and the Scioto Valley Railway, Power and Light Co. owned property valued at $27,740. Total tax with duplicate of the county was about $58 million.

Circleville Garden Club Views Films On Wildlife

Circleville Garden Club met Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Edward C. Wolf, 237 E. Mound St. Thomas Weldon, game protector, was guest speaker.

Joseph Veg, president, conducted the business meeting. He announced that the Regional Meeting of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs was being held here on Friday, Nov. 12 in Community United Methodist Church. He reminded the club that it is responsible for making two table decorations and name tags for the meeting. Mrs. Veg volunteered to make the tags.

Members agreed to have the annual Christmas Dinner 6:30 p.m. Dec. 3 at the Wardell Party Home. Each is to bring a gift for exchange and Mrs. Donald Watt will present the evening's program.

Mr. Weldon showed two films, "Secrets Of Plant Life" and "The Arctic Leming And Birds Of The Arctic." From these pictures it was evident that nature plays an important role in helping both plants and animals to survive and to reproduce their own species.

Mr. Weldon said the state was well stocked with game for the hunting season. There are available plenty of wild turkeys, grouse, pheasants, rabbits and squirrels. The quail is now off the song bird list but there are some restrictions for shooting them. He also said that a certain amount of hunting will not hurt the survival of the species.

Mrs. Wolfe served a dessert course at the close of the program. The Misses Anne and Elizabeth Wolf were assisting hostesses.

Pantry, Refrigerator Hold Keys To Beauty

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The key to your beauty today may be in the sour cream left over from the preparation of yesterday's beef stroganoff. And, in the interest of beauty, you might also make use of homemade mayonnaise, fruit or tea.

Those ingredients and many more from the pantry and refrigerator are used in recipes offered by "The International Beauty Book." The author, Beulah Roth tells about a quick lemonade facial and an easy to make milk mask that are among the face packs and skin treatments from many lands that can be made with a variety of foods.

For example, the Yugoslavians don't just eat their yogurt. Sometimes they slather it on their faces. And Guatemalans often use their bananas as skin treatments.

The piece de resistance in quick pickups is this one from Ireland that might iron out your crow's feet, mouth lines and frown lines for a few hours. Vaseline, oil or a rich emollient cream may be used, says the author. Dip a tablespoon in hot water. Apply the goo to your face, pressing the hot spoon against the wrinkled spot. Do this for a while, heating the spoon each time then remove the excess cream or oil from your face and sponge it off with a cool skin tonic.

If hair is a problem, the author suggests this emergency dry shampoo from Hong Kong: Beat from one to four egg whites (depending on the length of your hair) into a stiff meringue — about the texture one would use for a soufflé. Apply the egg white to the scalp and hair as you rub it in with a light circular motion. Dry the hair for 20 minutes with a small dryer. Then give it a vigorous brushing.

If you look pale, give yourself a bit of a tint with a brew of black tea. Sponge it over your face and neck with a large wad of cotton. Remove the excess with tissue. But black tea must be used — green, jasmine and other fancy teas aren't worth a tinter's time. Occasional treatments are suggested for those who would keep a summer tan through the winter.

Here's how to make the mayonnaise that is good for dry skin:

First warm a bowl with hot water, and then proceed as for mayonnaise — minus the salt and mustard.

You'll need a room-temperature egg, 1 cup of olive oil, and 1 teaspoon of lemon juice.

Beat the egg yolk slightly, adding one teaspoonful of the oil and then beating it with a small wire whisk until smooth. Add the additional olive oil about a tablespoon at a time, beating it until smooth... then beat in a teaspoon of lemon juice. Apply the mayonnaise to a clean face and throat. Massage deeply until most of it is absorbed, wipe off excess. Whatever remains can penetrate your skin as you sleep.

American Advisers Testify No Hint Of My Lai Heard

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — The chief American advisers to the South Vietnamese government in the My Lai area say none of their numerous sources even hinted that a massacre of civilians by U.S. troops had taken place there.

The lead-off defense witness told the court martial of Col. Oran K. Henderson Tuesday there was no word from any organization "which was preoccupied with human welfare."

Iowans Claim To Have Nation's Youngest Mayor

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—When Ohio officials hailed 19-year-old Ronald Hooker as the nation's youngest mayor, they apparently hadn't reckoned with Iowa's Jody Smith.

Hooker was elected mayor of Newcomerstown, Ohio, and the 19-year-old Smith was the voters' choice for mayor of Ayshire, Iowa, in the Nov. 2 election, which allowed 18, 19 and 20-year-olds to vote for the first time.

Ohio Gov. John Gilligan and 1,700 well-wishers attended a celebration at Newcomerstown Monday to laud Hooker's victory at the polls. They apparently believe he was the nation's youngest mayor.

Hooker turned 19 in June, while Iowa's Smith didn't become 19 until Oct. 24, just nine days before the election.

They would normally raise the point with me if they thought something improper was going on."

The testimony of James A. May and two other witnesses was intended to provide for the seven officers trying Henderson on charges of attempting to cover up the massacre, a sense of the violent Communist make-up of the area and to show that what happened in My Lai was not general knowledge.

Henderson is accused of failing to adequately investigate reports that civilians were killed indiscriminately, failing to move the allegations upward through channels and later making a false statement under oath to Army investigators.

May said that when he was senior province adviser in Quang Ngai his information sources included such groups as the International Voluntary Services, Quakers, the Canadian Medical Team and the Red Cross.

"Did you receive any information from any source of a number of civilians killed or murdered by any means in the My Lai 4 area?" asked Lt. Col. Frank A. Dorsey, Henderson's military lawyer.

A. No, I did not.

Q. Had such an occurrence taken place, would you have expected to receive such information?

A. Yes, I would have.

Q. Had such an occurrence taken place, would you have expected to receive such information?

A. Yes, I would have. The other witnesses were Lt. Col. Donald R. Keating, who was assistant province adviser for revolutionary development, and Lt. Col. David C. Gavin, adviser for Son Tinh district.

They also testified that if they had received unspecified reports of atrocities they would have dismissed them as Communist propaganda.

How Navajos Vote

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajo tribe, largest in the United States, is governed by an elective body consisting of a chairman, vice chairman, and 74 council members.

They are elected to four-year terms in reservation-wide elections in which paper ballots are used.

The last election was in mid-November, 1970, when Peter MacDonald was elected tribal chairman and Wilson Skeet, vice chairman.

Navajos have been voting in county, state, and federal elections since 1924.

Our thing is Paint

It seems like everybody is doing his thing these days. Which is okay if the "thing" is done right. If not... then there's a real "hang-up" of one kind or another.

Take paint, for example. This highly specialized product is being sold by clerks in some stores who don't know which paint to recommend for the many kinds of surfaces paint is made for. Or how much paint is needed. Or what kind of brush or roller to use.

We could go on and on. But the point is... our "thing" is paint. And we know paint better than we know ourselves. Better (we believe) than any retailer in town.

So let's do our "thing" together the next time you paint. It's the thing to do if you want the right paint in the right amount at the right price.

'South Pacific' Spotlights Unusual, Tragic Romance

B. J. SOWERS

DICK DAVIS

The chance meeting of a Marine officer and a Tonkinese souvenir peddler brings an unusual romance to light in "South Pacific," Roundtown Players latest production which opens next Wednesday for five performances.

The Tonkinese woman is Bloody Mary, who is given life in the player production by B. J. Sowers. Going about the island which has been taken over by American naval forces as a base, Bloody Mary learns to take advantage of all the Seabees, selling them authentic sea shells, grass skirts and shrunk heads to send back home. They become her friends, of sort, and teach her the language of the seaman, an education which infinitely spices her broken English.

It is Mary who tempts Marine Lieutenant Joseph Cable with the enchantment of Bali Ha'i. Cable, played by Dick Davis, comes to the naval island with a plan for turning the tide of the war, but this collapses. He becomes the pawn of an enterprising Seabee and Bloody Mary. Just one brief incident changes his life but also brings to the surface prejudices which, unknowingly, he had learned over his life. His angry thoughts are expressed in the song, "You've Got To Be Taught."

Cable's love affair is "South Pacific's" tragic romance.

Tickets for the performance are still available from Bingman's, Risch's and any cast or committee member.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service:

Clearing skies and milder weather moved into Ohio today, following another brush with winter-like weather Tuesday night.

Light snow fell in northern and central counties, while a chilly drizzle was reported in the south. While the snow was generally light, a few areas measured one-half to an inch.

Fog covered much of the state this morning, but was forecast to give way to clearing skies with temperatures in the 40s and low 50s this afternoon.

Thursday will be sunny with highs in the 40s and 50s, possibly reaching the low 60s in southern counties. The extended outlook for the weekend calls for more fair, mild weather with temperatures ranging from lows in the 30s and highs in the 50s on Friday to lows in the 40s and highs in the 60s on Sunday.

Lows this morning ranged from 32 at a number of points in the state to 35 at Toledo and Cleveland.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Clear and cold tonight. Lows in 20s and low 30s. Mostly sunny and warmer Thursday. Highs from the upper 40s to mid 50s north and the upper 50s to low 60s south.

NORTHWEST INLAND, LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST INLAND — Clear and cold tonight. Lows in the upper 20s and low 30s. Mostly sunny and warmer Thursday. Highs from the upper 40s to mid 50s.

SOUTHEAST, WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST — Clear and cold tonight. Lows from the mid 20s to low 30s. Sunny and warmer Thursday. Highs in the upper 50s and low 60s.

New Deadline And Penalty Set For Auto Titles

New legislation in Ohio has changed some rules governing certificate of title for motor vehicles. Pickaway County Clerk of Courts, Sara Dresbach, reminds area citizens.

The new law, Section 4505.06 of the Ohio Revised Code, now mandates that in all cases of transfer of motor vehicles, the application for certificate of title shall be filed within 15 days after the date of assignment.

Whenever an application for a title is not filed within the 15 days as stated, the Clerk of Courts is required to collect a fee of $5 for issuing the title in addition to all regular fees. This $5 will be retained by the clerk and be paid into the county's general fund.

Mrs. Dresbach reminds all persons that if they are now holding an auto title which has not been filed that this must be done before Nov. 25 when the law goes into effect. Filing for a title after that date will cost the additional fee.

'Heritage Clubs' Set Up To Get Kentuckians Home

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The organization of eastern Kentuckians designed to reverse the migration from Appalachia is ready to set up clubs for that purpose in 28 northern cities.

Water Board Hears Cases, Doesn't Act

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board heard 13 cases and a number of individual requests Tuesday, but ran out of time to act on any of them.

It set a special meeting for Nov. 23 to take action.

During the meeting, the cities of Ravenna, Englewood and East Canton asked the board to lift bans on new sewer tap-ins, which have the effect of freezing new construction.

The cities based their requests on progress, being made to improve their sewer treatment facilities.

After hearing complaints by petitioners from the village of Minerva Park about a planned apartment project in an area of Columbus adjacent to the village, the board asked for further investigation.

The petitioners contended the construction would cause problems in the community because of inadequate storm sewers.

The board asked the attorney general's office to determine its authority in matters of storm sewers and surface water runoff.

State Pay Hinges On New Budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Budget Director Jay Tepper says state employees will be paid on time Friday if the Legislature passes a November interim budget before then.

The interim measure, already approved by the Senate, was expected to be enacted by the House this afternoon.

While the interim budget will not become law until 10 days after passage, Tepper said the state has sufficient reserves on hand to meet payrolls. He said the state may go ahead and pay employees Friday as long as the Legislature has demonstrated its intent by passing the interim budget.

Lawmakers have been unable to agree on a tax to finance a permanent biennial budget. The latest proposal, a sales tax increase, was rejected by the House Tuesday.

Officials of the State Employees Union and the Ohio Civil Service Employees Association urged the legislators and Gov. John Gilligan Tuesday to take whatever action was necessary to insure that the state's 48,000 employees receive their paychecks Friday.

Herschel Sigall, executive director of the State Employees Union, threatened to call a strike by members of his union Monday if they were not paid on time.

Winds Lash Northwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Strong winds whipped across the Pacific Northwest and snow fell in portions of the Northeast today, but clear skies and cold weather prevailed over most of the nation.

Wind gusts up to 64 miles an hour lashed Bellingham, Wash., and high-wind warnings were issued for all western portions of Washington and Oregon.

Occasional rain fell over Washington, parts of Oregon and northern California and gale warnings were in effect along each of the states' coastlines.

Light snow fell from New York state to North Carolina and eastern Tennessee. Light rain dampened the Southeast from Florida to Alabama.

The remainder of the nation had clear skies and cool to cold temperatures.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 16 at Houlton, Maine, to 74 at Key West, Fla.

A primary purpose of the organization is to attract industry to Eastern Kentucky by drawing up a computerized list of skills learned by former residents of the area who have moved away but would come back if jobs were available.

Lowell Reese, who now is the organization's only full-time, paid staff member, said Tuesday he plans to go to each of the cities where clubs are planned over the next three months to try to get them started.

Ohio cities in which he is planning to set up clubs are Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Toledo, Akron, Cleveland, Troy, Sandusky, Kettering and Lorain.

Michigan cities on the list are Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Ypsilanti, Kalamazoo, Pontiac, Dearborn, Ann Arbor and Wyandotte.

Those in Indiana are Indianapolis, Richmond, Wabash, Kokomo, Connersville, South Bend and Gary.

In addition to clubs in each of 32 Eastern Kentucky counties, others also are planned for the Kentucky cities of Louisville, Lexington, Covington and Frankfort.

Reese now is operating out of Frankfort, using post office box 642 as his office address, but plans to move his headquarters to eastern Kentucky around February.

Court OKs Trust Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting on a government appeal, the Supreme Court agreed Tuesday to decide whether stock transferred to an irrevocable trust is taxable at death when the owner controlled the power to vote the stock during his lifetime.

The U.S. Circuit Court in Cincinnati, in a case involving the estate of Milliken C. Byrum of Orient, Ohio, ruled 2 to 1 last April that the stock is not taxable since Byrum had not retained the power to regulate or allocate distribution of income.

The Justice Department, appealing in August to the Supreme Court, said the ruling opened a substantial loophole in estate tax law and requested a hearing. The court made no comment in accepting the case for argument later this term.

Byrum owned controlling stock in three corporations. In 1958 he created an irrevocable trust for the benefit of his children and, from time to time, transferred shares in the corporations to the trust. He retained for his lifetime the power to vote the stock, none of which was listed on an exchange, and the power to prevent the trustee from selling any assets.

The Justice Department said the ruling by the Circuit Court would permit substantial revenue savings to majority corporate owners who insist on retaining lifetime control of their corporations.

State Memorials Are Reopened For Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-seven state memorials closed after Labor Day as part of Gov. John J. Gilligan's austerity program were reopened to the public Tuesday.

The Ohio Historical Society, which operates the memorials, said until General Assembly adopts its biennial budget the society's budget would be at a reduced level.

Memorials reopened include prehistoric and historic parks, nature preserves and seven state museums. The society will restore the jobs of six or seven furloughed staff members to man the reopened memorials.

All other of the 60 state memorials of the Society ordinarily close at the end of October each.

Chrysler Hikes Captive Import Price Stickers

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. has announced price hikes on four Colt models and the English-built Cricket, the second boost for the company's import models since the Nixon administration's new economic policy increased the import tax surcharge from 3.5 per cent to 10 per cent.

Increases announced Monday on the four Colt models range from $169 to $216 and make the lowest priced of its Japanese-built cars more expensive than all three of the American subcompact cars.

The price of the Cricket four-door sedan, the only model available in the United States, increased by $69.

Chrysler said the new prices have been approved by the Cost of Living Council in Washington.

Pickets Protest OU Coal Purchase

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Twenty five pickets walked near the Ohio University heating plant early Tuesday after 1,000 tons of non-union coal was delivered to the university over the weekend.

The fuel will provide heat to the campus through Thanksgiving.

They carried no signs and did not identify themselves. The United Mine Workers Union has been on strike against unionized coal mines in the nation for six weeks.

Ranks of the pickets swelled from two to 25 early in the morning, then began to thin and nine were seen at mid-morning.

Toll Roads Help

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—A legislative study of Kentucky's toll roads indicates the decision to build the network of turnpikes in the past decade may have been "one of the wisest decisions ever made."

It cited statistics showing that economic benefits to formerly isolated areas are greater than those accruing to cities along interstate highways.

INMATES BURNED — A prison bus returning to the Cherokee County Public works camp near Canton, Ga., burst into flames (background) and one of 19 inmates seriously burned stands in pain in foreground waiting for help. Eleven prisoners were critically burned. The pictures were made moments after the bus burst into flames by photographer Andrew Seddon of Canton.

See 1 - Room School Step Forward

By ED ROWLAND
Associated Press Writer
OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — Residents of isolated Ocracoke Island see their new one-room school as a step into modern education, not a step backwards in time.

All of the island's 68 school-age youngsters attend grades one through 12 in the new $100,000 juniper wood structure. The building has a central, common-use room and alcoves on four sides.

The faculty of five, including principal John R. Tucker, thinks its ungraded concept is an indication of progress.

Visitors, Tucker says, see confusion, "but there is a pattern of formality. It's taken the first few weeks to get accustomed to it."

Until last spring Ocracoke youngsters went to a five-room, frame school. There was one teacher for each three grades.

Now the 27 pupils in the first seven grades are in one area with two teachers, while the older youths are taught in two groups by three teachers.

Ocracoke's isolation has always limited the education of island youngsters. The sandy strip of land lies 75 miles off the North Carolina coast, across Pamlico Sound from the Hyde County seat of Swan Quarter.

The 540 persons who live on the four-mile-long island can reach the mainland only by ferry.

Scott Coble, Hyde County schools superintendent, said one parent told him his 9-year-old son had to be almost driven to school before the new building was erected, but this year he can't keep him away.

"In this situation it's the only way to go. Ocracoke is being brought up to date, really," Coble said.

"One large room in the center is the library. Around it are the classrooms. Students are free to move from the general room to the others to study, use audiovisual aids and the like," Tucker said.

He gave this explanation of study for pupils above the elementary grades:

A pupil selects the courses he is interested in, then selects material to be used from the school's collections.

The pupil and his teacher go over the program, make any adjustments necessary to comply with state rules, then list objectives to be reached within an agreed time limit.

"He and the teacher review the work at times to keep it on the track. If the objectives are accomplished within the period or ahead of time, the pupils are entitled to free time to read on related subjects," the principal said.

Tucker said there is much more guidance in the elementary grades.

National Grange Meeting Calls For 'Market Power'

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The National Grange, meeting in its 105th annual convention, Tuesday called for increases in the "market power" of agriculture.

"Steps must be taken to increase the market power of agriculture if the competitive market system is to achieve a reasonable and adequate return to the farmer," the Grange said in a comprehensive position paper called simply "Farm Policy."

"We believe that farmers can meet this challenge by strengthening our cooperatives and formation of bargaining associations which would be effective in determining policies and marketing procedures for specific commodities," the paper stated.

The position paper was among a host of such measures and resolutions acted upon during Tuesday's mostly routine business meetings at the 10-day convention at the Daniel Boone Hotel here.

The farm policy paper dwelt at length on the merit of the family farm concept and cooperative marketing methods.

"An agriculture built upon the efficient family farm concept is the basic economic structure of rural America and in the interests of the nation," the Grange said.

"While tremendous strides have been made in production techniques in agriculture the farmer is still dependent on a market and pricing structure inadequate for present-day conditions."

The farm organization said that while cooperatives have made a substantial contribution to marketing of farm products and reducing costs of agriculture inputs, the farmer still lacks effective muscle in the market place.

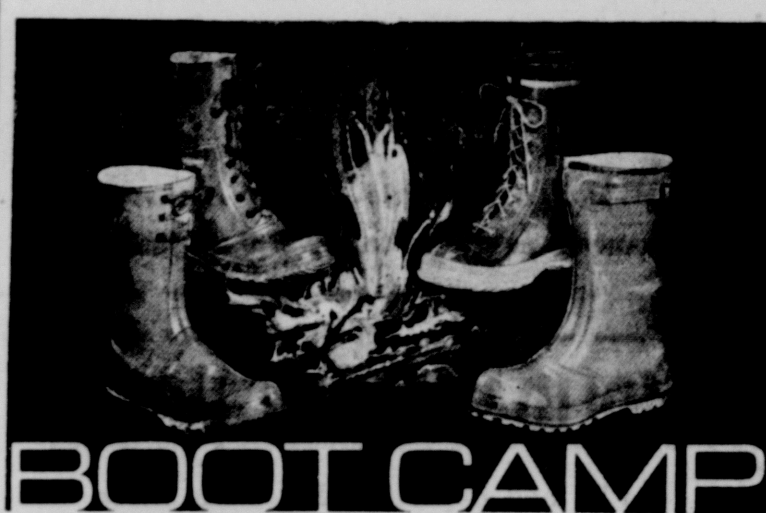

In a resolution on welfare, the Grange urged the reduction of welfare payments to able-bodied men and women who refuse to accept available employment for which they are qualified.

The Grange contended in the welfare resolution that the dignity of welfare recipients is enhanced if they can work to earn their payments, even though the work available may not be the most preferable.

To bring about the changes in welfare programs seen necessary by the organization, the Grange urged complete revision of welfare laws, vocational training for the unemployed and for high school dropouts, required employment by welfare recipients for at least part of their income, and cancellation of all benefits to any recipient who refuses to work.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate Tuesday passed two pieces of legislation aimed at preserving the state's share of federal matching funds for air quality control and highway construction.

The two bills, both of which bring existing Ohio laws into conformity with new federal requirements, cleared the upper chamber with little discussion and a minimum of opposition. Both now move to the House.

By a unanimous, 28-0 vote, the Senate approved a bill upgrading the state's air pollution control laws to meet tougher specifications required by the 1970 federal Clean Air Act.

The bill's prime sponsor, Sen. Anthony Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, said failure to enact the measure before January 30, 1972, will place in jeopardy matching funds from the federal government for air quality programs in the state. The House has promised to move quickly on the legislation.

Changed by the new bill is the current legal definition of air pollution, presently confined to conditions "sufficient to injure" human health or welfare, plant or animal life or property, or which unreasonably interferes with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property.

New wording broadens that definition to include situations which "threaten to be injurious to human health or welfare..."

The measure states: "The director of the health of the state may declare the existence of any air pollution health, and may temporarily restrict the use of any equipment or machines, including automobiles, that contribute to the emergency."

The state's Air Pollution Control Board may issue orders prohibiting or abating emissions, or requiring control devices or other measures. Such orders, the bill reads, must be based following a study of the technical feasibility and economic reasonableness of forced compliance.

Failure to comply with board orders permits the board to levy $10,000-per-day fines against offenders following their conviction. The current maximum penalty is $500 per day.

The measure grants the board power to adopt whatever emission standards and other regulations are needed to "achieve, and maintain" compliance with federal ambient air quality standards. Operating permits shall be required from any new, modified or existing pollution source.

Variances, or exceptions, for failure to comply with standards may be issued after it has been determined that:

—Compliance is impractical because of reasons beyond the control of the applicant for an operating permit.

—Compliance is technically infeasible or economically unreasonable.

—The variance will not result in the endangering of human health, welfare or property.

—Compliance will produce serious hardship without equal or greater benefit to the public. The Senate also passed long-stalled legislation expanding coverage of the 1965 federal Highway Beautification Act to prohibit billboard advertising within 660 feet of any highway or primary traffic system. Current prohibitions apply only to Interstate highways.

The vote was 27-2. At stake, said Sen. Harry Meshe, D-33 Youngstown, is some $20 million annually in highway construction funds from Washington unless adoption of the nationwide standards can be accomplished by the first of the year.

Under the bill's provisions,

Too Much Alcohol Bad For The Natives

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — A commission of inquiry on drinking in New Guinea was told that too much alcohol is ruining hundreds of native families.

New Guinea's 2,312,000 villagers were allowed to drink officially in September, 1963, following a visit by a United Nations Mission.

Now an upsurge in crime and general lawlessness has prompted some native leaders to call for prohibition.

exceptions to the new requirements could only be made if signs are:

—Official or directional, including those announcing scenic, historic or natural attractions.

—Advertising the sale or lease of property on which they are located.

—Advertising the name of the business conducted on the property, or identifying the product sold or the service rendered.

The House Highways and Transportation Committee has scheduled its first hearing on the bill today.

Quartette Entertains Kiwanians

Kiwanis Club of Ashville were entertained Tuesday by a male quartette who performed several selections, then led the club in group singing.

The men — Don Flierl, Chet Peters, Richard Cook and Jack Lemon — are all from the Ashville area. Chairman of the program for the dinner meeting was Steve Cook, who is in charge of the committee for support of churches. An additional guest, Rev. John Currens of the Ashville Zion United Methodist Church, was also introduced.

During the regular business meeting, President Rodger Southward congratulated committee chairmen on their fine reports for October. He also reminded members that the first load of old newspapers is to be sold Saturday. Any member who has papers to be picked up should contact the president or Bill Lockard.

Bill Huston and Russell, who head the charity newspaper committee, distributed advertising campaign materials to each member and urged that all copy for the paper be turned in immediately to Charles Morrison.

Larry Toole reported on the club's trip last week to the Training Institute of Central Ohio. He also urged the men to attend a Christmas party planned for the boys at TICO.

Next Monday evening at Teays Valley High's Athletic Banquet, the Kiwanis trophy will be presented to the outstanding football player, who is selected by the club's Boys and Girls Committee working with the TV coaching staff.

Kiwanians will host a Ladies' Night at their next week's dinner meeting.

Galion Blaze Fatal To 4

GALION, Ohio (AP)—Four children burned to death early today in a mobile home fire at a trailer park here.

Firemen said the victims, ages 8, 7, 5 and 15 months, were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Smith.

The cause of the fire has not been determined. Firemen said the mobile home was engulfed in flame when they arrived.

The children were found on the floor of a bedroom.

The father was treated at the hospital for cuts and bruises, and the mother was admitted for shock, authorities said.

Investigation of the fire continued.

NEW MAYOR — Frank Rizzo, running on a Democratic platform of law and order, took an early lead and was never closely approached by his Republican opponent.

BETTY BROWN'S HOMEMAKER HINT DUCKLING A L' ORANGE

A main course, this special deserves a lush garnish. Garnish with kumquats, grapes and candied fruit.

1 ready-to-cook Duckling (approx. 4-lbs.)
2 Tablespoons Minced Onion
1/4 Tablespoon Tarragon Leaves
2 Tablespoons Butter or Margarine
1/2 Cup Orange Juice
1/2 Teaspoon Salt
1 Teaspoon Dry Mustard
1/4 Cup Currant Jelly
2 Tablespoons Shredded Orange Peel
2 Tablespoons Port, or if desired, Cranberry Cocktail
1 1/4 Teaspoons Cornstarch

Wash duckling and pat dry. Fasten neck skin to back with skewers. Lift wing tips up and over back for natural brace. Heat oven to 325 degrees. Place duckling breast up on rack in open shallow roasting pan. Cook and stir onion and tarragon leaves in butter until onion is tender. Add orange juice, salt, mustard, currant jelly and orange peel. Heat over medium heat, stirring constantly, until jelly is melted. Reduce heat; stir in wine and orange sections.

Measure sauce; reserve half for glaze. Brush duckling with part of remaining orange sauce. Roast uncovered about 2 1/2 hours, pricking skin with fork and brushing occasionally with remaining orange sauce. If duckling becomes too brown, place piece of aluminum foil lightly over breast. Duckling is done when drumstick meat feels very soft.

In small saucepan, stir reserved orange sauce slowly into cornstarch. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Just before serving, pour sauce over duckling. 4 Servings.

SERVING DUCKLING

No slicing! Figure on half a fillet of breast plus a drumstick or thigh to each person. Or quarter or halve the duckling with poultry shears.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

THURSDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when it is best to wait until midafternoon before you try to make new arrangements which require a greater amount of efficiency from you. Before that time you are under fine aspects for thinking out a course of action that can be right for you in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you wait until the afternoon you will know better how to take care of a problem you have with a co-worker. Do something to improve your health. Plan for the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Wait until the day's work is done before you concentrate on having fun. Improve your appearance. Stop being so stubborn with mate. Show that you have wisdom.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Steer clear of a ticklish subject at home and avoid a big argument. The evening then is fine for entertaining. Eliminate whatever is causing friction in a quiet manner.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Much care in motion of all kinds is necessary during day or you could get into serious trouble. Show others that you are a precise person. Friends can be a joy now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have gotten into a financial muddle which objective thinking can clear up. Establish a new budget for yourself and allow enough for any possible emergencies.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try not to fall into a worry syndrome or this becomes a miserable day for you. Give more attention to health. A fine evening to spend with delightful friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Stop fretting over what you can do little about, but try and help others with their problems. After a trying day, the evening can bring solace and contentment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't expect favors from friends until the evening when they are more cooperative. You have to be astute in handling a personal problem. Put your clever mind to work.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to handle an important matter well, so make sure the facts and figures are correct. Put off action until tomorrow. Irking a bigwig could be disastrous.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many fine ideas you could jump into, but be sure to take all the varying factors into consideration. Study them well. Fun with family is good tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Carry through with all obligations you have assumed and gain the respect of everyone. Evening is the best time to talk over a situation with mate. Show that you are generous.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try not to be forceful with associates during the day when tensions mount. Keep at your own work and all smooths down naturally. Steer clear of an opponent who wants to make trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those young people who early in life should have much supervised activity, otherwise the inquisitive mind here could get into one troublesome situation after another. Teach not to make comments until all the facts are known, and to use tact. The years after retirement are best in this chart when there can be real affluence.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Derby

Mrs. Georgia Sweet
896-2462

Mrs. Maxwell Graham and family, and other relatives have the community's condolences on the death of her mother, Mrs. Bessie Thompson, 62, of Circleville, who passed away in Berger Hospital last Monday.

Mrs. Lois Parker of Magnolia visited with Miss Grace Minshall from Tuesday through Thursday. She also called on other friends in town while here. On Thursday Mrs. Matilda Beavers and sister, Mrs. Earl Poulson of Commercial Point visited with Lois at Miss Minshall's home. The three ladies graduated from Darby High School.

Stella May Whitlock, former Five Points student of Miss Grace Minshall, called her on Saturday October 30. She formerly lived in Derby but has lived in Chicago for many years.

Miss Stephanie Garland, Westfall Senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garland of Harrisburg, has been chosen a semi-finalist in the National Achievement Scholarship Program for Negro students. The program is sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Program Qualifying Test Corporation. Stephanie is also a National Honor Society member at Westfall and will be eligible for a variety of scholarships after she completes the Scholarship Aptitude Test.

Freshmen class members at Westfall recently elected cheerleaders. They are Kathy Alkire, Connie Drummond, Janie Hensen, Karen Marshall, Cindy Schleich, and Lynn Stillings. These girls will lead cheers at the Freshmen basketball games for the season.

Don't forget about the rabies clinic on Sunday from 1-5 p.m., at the Derby Township Hall.

Birthdays: Harold Adkins, Shirley Thompson, Nov. 7; Bill Reay, Lou Whitson, Sheila Stires, Nov. 8; Kevin Lindsey, Nov. 9; Dennis Hamilton, Stephanie Smith, Nov. 10; Mike Wardell, Sara Anderson, Nov. 11; Howard Harris, Pam Long, Maynard Marshall, Nov. 12; Sherman Hughes Jr. Nov. 13.

Anniversaries: Mr. and Mrs. Norman Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Spangler, Nov. 7; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bauhan, Nov. 8; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Faber, Nov. 9.

Water Rate Hike Ordered Withdrawn

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission said Tuesday the Forest Hills Utility Co. of Heath, near Newark, must withdraw October billings which carry hikes in water and sewer charges.

The commission said it had authorized the firm to file tariffs to increase water service from $4 to $10.75 and sewer service from $2 to $5.35, but had not approved them and did not intend to do so while the federal wage-price freeze remains in effect.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Do Not Fold, Spindle or Mutilate," ABC's "Movie of the Week" adaptation of Doris Mies Disney's thriller, managed Tuesday night to translate some suspense from the book to the small screen and even improved on the principal characters.

It was basically a comedy—four little old ladies for a lark subscribing to a computer dating service and making up a description of a 23-year-old blonde as the subscriber.

The service turned up as a date a violent, insane man. The women's prank turned into murder—a call girl he mistook for the fictitious girl.

Most interesting aspect of the 90 minutes was the appearances of four distinguished actresses. Helen Hayes as the ringleader of the mischief makers, was a merry sprite fond of double old-fashioned and ahead of the police in the hunt for the killer. Myrna Loy had a less attractive part as her down-to-earth sister, Sylvia Sidney and Mildred Natwick tagged along. They were more amusing and likeable than Mrs. Disney's book characters.

The beginning was more sinister than funny, but the wind-up with the ladies holding the murderer at bay with a hat pin, a pocket comb and a paper weight was truly amusing.

NBC, which announced Monday a temporary realignment of some of its programs, revealed on Tuesday the cancellation of five programs after about 13 episodes each: "Sarge," "The Funny Side," "The Partners," "The Good Life" and "The D. A." All were struck down by low Nielsen ratings.

NBC will replace "The D. A." with "Sanford and Son," its answer to CBS's "All in the Family." Both are produced by Bud Yorkin and Norman Lean and are adaptations of British TV hits.

"Sanford and Son," to appear Friday nights beginning in January, involves a Los Angeles junk dealer and his partner son.

Title roles will be played by black actors Redd Fox and Demond Wilson. A comedy series about junk dealers is almost as big a gamble as one about a bigot.

An hour-long action show, "Emergency" will take over the Saturday evening spots to be vacated by "The Partners" and "The Good Life." This Jack Webb-produced show concerns the operations of the Los Angeles County paramedical rescue squad.

Replacing "Sarge" and "The Funny Side," soon to be in tandem on Tuesday nights, will be a weekly two hours of special programs, a mix of drama, variety, children's programs, news department documentaries and actuality shows.

Gilligan Glad Sales Tax Turned Down

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan has praised the Ohio House's rejection of a sales tax increase to 5.5 per cent.

Speaking here Tuesday at a convention of Ohio school board members, administrators and business officials, Gilligan said there must be a "change from a sales tax to an income tax for basic financing."

A state income tax, said Gilligan, is the only way school districts can meet the "imperative necessity of moving away from the age-old method of support for education through property taxes."

He blamed a "generation of concerted effort" by opponents of tax increases for "driving Ohio down."

"The state is 46th in the country in aid to education," said Gilligan. "It is in the bottom 10 in all categories of state aid."

Martin Essex, state superintendent of public education, accompanied Gilligan to the conference and said that his four-point proposal would result in sound educational programs.

His ideas include redistributing to improve the quality of education to use teachers and facilities more efficiently, a progressive tax for individuals and industry, a uniform property tax of 20 mills that would be collected by the state and parceled out to districts on a per-capita basis and retaining continuing levies so school boards don't have to go to the voters periodically.

Red China Propounds U.N. Policy

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai says Communist China is entering the United Nations with self-confidence but its delegation will take a "very cautious" approach there, the managing editor of Japan's largest newspaper reports.

Hiroo Goto of Asahi Shimbun said he interviewed the 73-year-old premier in Peking on Oct. 28, three days after the United Nations voted to admit the Communist regime.

Chou said he was surprised by the 76-35 vote.

"Frankly, we did not expect that the resolution would be approved by more than a two-thirds majority, much less an overwhelming majority," he said.

Discussing the stand his representatives would take at the United Nations, Chou recalled an old Chinese saying, "Be careful when facing a problem."

"We do not have too much knowledge about the United Nations and are not too conversant with the new situation which has arisen in the United Nations," he continued. "We must be very cautious. This does not mean, however, that we do not have self-confidence; it means that caution is required and that we must not be indiscreet and haphazard."

Chou said China's principles at the United Nations would be "clear-cut" and that Peking believes all U.N. members must be considered "uniformly equal."

"We are opposed to the 'major powers,' to power politics and to domination. We will not become a major power under any circumstances."

Zanesville Man Faces Death For Slaying

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Larry Stage, 26, of Zanesville, has been sentenced to death in Muskingum County Common Pleas Court for the slaying of James Holmes, 39.

Stage was convicted of the killing Nov. 1. The victim's body was found in a shallow grave near the city last April.

David McCoy, also arrested in connection with the case, hanged himself in the county jail two days after being apprehended in April.

Marine-grade plywood can be used as a sun deck over a flat or slightly pitched roof.

Laurelville Man To Be In Concert

Joseph Cavinee, Laurelville, will be appearing with the Capital University Concert Band Nov. 20 when they present an 8 p.m. concert in Washington C. H.

A second year member of the band, Cavinee is a junior in music education, majoring in trumpet. He is also a member of Delta Tau Upsilon Fraternity.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cavinee, he graduated from Laurelville High School where he participated in the band directed by Harold Aspenwall.

In addition to concerts, the Capital University Concert Band, performs at campus functions and provides a pep band for home basketball games. Now in its 84th year, the band has the distinction of being the oldest musical organization on campus and, this year, is the largest in the history of the organization.

Five Points News

By Mrs. Francis Furniss

There were 22 present at the United Methodist Sunday School Sunday morning. Worship service followed with 35 present.

The Five Points United Methodist WSCS met Wednesday evening in the church for their Nov. meeting. The evening's theme was "What's in your Thanksgiving Bag?" Each member present were presented a bag containing several slips of paper, a program sheet and a cookie.

Mrs. William Davis, president, welcomed the members and Mrs. Clyde Gantz, guest, followed by group singing "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee." Mrs. Spear led the group in a responsive call to worship. All present took from their bag a white piece of paper on which they wrote a list of all the things for which they were sorry and wished forgiveness. The ushers collected the lists and presented them to the altar. All prayed a prayer of forgiveness and the Lord's Prayer. Those having a green sheet of paper in their bag read the 146th Psalm and those having a pink sheet read Luke 17:11-19 followed by Gloria Patri and the anthem, "Thanks Be to God." Each one took a yellow paper from their bag and wrote down things they were thankful for and several volunteered sharing what they had written. Mrs. Spear gave a very interesting reading, "Let's Give Thanks" and "Thank You" followed by Offertory and Doxology. The group sang, "Oh For a Thousand Tongues to Sing" and ate the cookie together in love. Each took a small paper from the bag and wrote a word that means a lot to you and pinned it on and wore it the rest of the evening. Mrs. William Riley took the bag containing our sins and burned it following the singing of "Now Thank We All Our God" and the benediction.

A short business session was held in the basement following the program. Roll call was answered by 15 members. Mrs. Herman Porter, secretary, read the report of the last meeting and Mrs. Francis Furniss, treasurer, gave the financial report. The membership contest was extended to the end of the year. The group voted to send their pledge to the District Treasurer. They also decided to make an article or gift for a needy person or an aged person in the rest home. At the close of the meeting, lovely refreshments were served from a tea table centered with a lovely arrangement of fall flowers by Mrs. William Davis and Mrs. William Riley.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of Clark Dennis who passed away unexpectedly at his home Thursday evening. His funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the Porter Funeral Home in Mt. Sterling with burial in Darbyville Cemetery.

Fay Jolly of Coumbus was the Monday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clark McCafferty and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Holloway of Washington C. H. were their Sunday guests.

Miss Ruth Troutman of Columbus was the Sunday afternoon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Neff.

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant.

These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat. As an example, did you know that some beef, graded U.S. Choice, just doesn't meet our "Super-Right" specifications?

You see...we don't buy by grade. We use our own high standards to bring you the best values.

That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading...not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right."

It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

Arms Supply To Pakistan Cut By Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cancellation of U.S. arms shipments to Pakistan has taken a weapon from the hands of one of the Nixon administration's most vocal critics while making important diplomatic gains.

Administration officials acknowledged domestic political benefits will be one of the major results of Monday's arms-cutoff announcement.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the Massachusetts Democrat who had led the constant criticism of the arms aid, said the cutoff "is a welcome first step in what I hope will be a redirecting of our policy in South Asia."

But other sources on Capitol Hill and in the administration said the arms cancellation removed one of Kennedy's most potent issues while relieving congressional pressure on both the White House and the military regime in Pakistan.

Both sides apparently had this in mind in agreeing to the cancellation. According to State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray, "neither we nor the government of Pakistan were unaware of the controversy" this subject has generated in the United States.

Another and perhaps even more important result is an improvement in U.S.-Indian relations.

The Indians never were really concerned with the amount of the shipment, mostly spare parts and small pieces of equipment worth less than $5 million since last March.

The real problem in the eyes of the New Delhi government was what it saw as the implied approval of Pakistani actions, particularly in the rebellious East Bengal province, that the shipments represented.

So, the end of American military sales to the Pakistani military regime at a time when the two subcontinent nations appear on the verge of a general war is being read in New Delhi as a symbolic victory.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Show Your Love, But Not In Public

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote in saying she and her husband were embarrassed by a friend who carried on with his girl friend in public, "kissing, hugging, smooching and what not." She claimed it was bad manners, and you advised, "Tell Loverboy to knock off the love scenes in public."

I think you were both wrong! I see nothing wrong with showing affection in public. If people waited until they had total privacy, there would be very little affection shown. And if children were not exposed to displays of affection, they would grow up without knowing what "love" is.

My father is 57, and Mom is 48, and he has always kissed her whenever he felt like it. It didn't matter if we had company or not. And it wasn't a little peck on the cheek. He'd take her in his arms and really kiss her! And not lightly, and not just once, either. And it's the same today.

Once Mom joked, "You've mussed my hair and smeared my lipstick!" And Dad grabbed her again and said, "Who has a better right?" And that, in my opinion, is the right attitude.

DEAR RAISED: Held it! I was also raised right, having seen my father hug and kiss my mother, plus giving her an occasional affectionate smack on the backside. But good taste demands limits. And limits we had in our house. Kids grow up knowing what "love" is without having seen it demonstrated through to the last act.

DEAR ABBY: George and I have been dating regularly and we really get along very well, but he has one habit which drives me up a wall!

When we eat together, before he even TASTES the food, George gets busy with the salt and pepper, and he really lays it on! He does this when we are eating at my home, at the homes of others, or when we're eating out.

Now, Abby, I pride myself on being a pretty good cook, and I know how to season food properly, and I feel insulted when I see him add salt and pepper before he even knows if the food needs it or not.

Can I come right out and tell George it's bad manners? Or should I just ask him to cut it out because it irritates me? I have thought of making a stew and drowning it in salt and pepper just to teach him a lesson. What is your advice?

GEORGE'S LADYFRIEND: DEAR LADYFRIEND: Why waste good food? Simply tell George to please taste the food first, and then if he thinks it needs more salt and pepper to add it. (P.S. And if this is George's biggest fault, you're a lucky lady.)

DEAR ABBY: I am only 20 years old and I am married to a guy who can't get enough sleep. We've been married for two years and he's been this way for the last year, and he's getting worse. I used to have to start begging him on Thursday to take me out on Saturday night. Now it's such a chore I don't even bother. I just sit and watch the Saturday night movie on TV all by myself while he sleeps.

As for sex, he can take it or leave it alone, but he mostly leaves it alone. Is this normal for a 23-year-old guy? I still get whistled at when I walk down the street, so I know it's not ME!

He told me he had a physical at the plant where he works and he came out A-O.K. Please tell me how I can wake up this Rip Van Winkle?

RIP'S WIFE: DEAR WIFE: It is not normal for a 23-year-old man to be so disinterested in sex. And anyone who sleeps as much as your husband should wake up and get a through going over

Editor's Note—The flag of China, population 750 million, flies at the United Nations alongside the banners of nations that can count fewer than a million people. It is a strange club, this organization of 131 nations pledged to the common good. Here, in the second of three articles dealing with change and crisis in the United Nations, William L. Ryan discusses money and other problems that trouble it.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Even its severe critics concede that the United Nations, for all its faults and problems, has been a measure of insurance against the chance that the world suddenly will go up in one vast bonfire.

Americans pay more for that insurance than any other people in the world. Yet for a quarter century the premium has amounted to something like 80 cents a year for each American man, woman and child.

To fight what was supposed to be one small war in Vietnam for 10 years has cost each American man, woman and child around $60 a year. That's how the figures work out on a total U.S. contribution to the world organization over 26 years of about $4.1 billion, and a total 10-year cost of well over $100 billion for Indochina.

Beset all its life by political uproar, the United Nations now is struggling with a financial crisis as well.

How much of a crisis? Well, the policeman of world peace is in the hole to the tune of $189 million.

Why a financial crisis? One big reason is the refusal of some members to pay certain assessments when they disagreed with the peacekeeping actions involved. Another is the by another doctor. Don't let him put it off. It could be serious. What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

fact that Nationalist China has been kicked out, leaving a debt of $30 million, unlikely to be absorbed by the incoming Communist regime. Also, the number of nonpayers and slow payers is increasing among the 131 members.

The situation promises to get worse.

The U.S. budget for 1971 is about $950 million, of which the United States contributes nearly a third. Once Americans paid a bigger share, but under present U.N. rules no member is supposed to pay more than 30 per cent. The U.S. contribution is being gradually scaled down to that.

Voices are being raised in the United States calling for a slash in the American contribution.

Other American voices are being raised in favor of amendments to the U.N. Charter to change the situation of "one-nation, one-vote" in the assembly.

Theirs is a weighty argument, on the surface.

If, for example, your city has a population of more than one million, it is bigger than 16 of the member nations in the world organization. In fact, a fifth of all U.N. members have populations under two million. These are the microstates. Their per capita gross national product is as low, in some cases, as $50 annually, as compared with the $3,700 U.S. figure.

Yet, the complain American critics, the voice of any one microstate in the General Assembly is equal to the American vote.

The trouble is that urgent problems cannot be solved quickly without threatening the existence of the organization itself. As long ago as 1964, the U.S. Congress proposed sanctions against U.N. members in arrears on financial obligations. But an attempt to punish such members by depriving them of their 6 votes could, if pressed, lead to disintegration of the United Nations, just as attempts to downgrade the voting status of present smaller members could, in the view of seasoned diplomats, do much damage.

The small members, in fact, have countercomplaints. In most cases—the vote on the China issue was a rare exception—small nations have next to no voice in decision-making.

Most meaningful decisions are taken by the Security Council, the action agency. Although it has 15 members, only the five permanent ones—the big powers—have vetoes. Thus the superpowers, and especially the superpower, decide what is and what is not done. The small nations present a plausible claim that they are shut out of decision-making. A vote in the assembly is little consolation.

Its financial difficulties are among the most urgent problems facing the world organization, not only because the situation grows worse but because it undermines confidence in the organization and erodes its ability to act.

The money crisis began with the Russian and French refusals to pay share of peacekeeping operations they disliked. Almost a dozen smaller nations also began refusing to pay portions of their budget shares applied to operations they did not condone. The United Nations had to float bonds to pay for operations in the Congo, Cyprus, and the Middle East. The amount of the deficit might seem small in terms of America's outlays, but it may require a special session of the General Assembly to deal with the crisis.

Union Calls For National Protest Strike

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — A major AFL-CIO union urged today a nationwide general strike if necessary to reverse pay regulations imposed by President Nixon's Pay Board.

"We are shocked and disappointed that the first vote taken by the Nixon administration's Pay Board constituted an attack on the economic standards and the general welfare of the working people of our country," said the executive board of the 500,000-member Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union.

The union's board, conducting one of a series of AFL-CIO meetings here, said it will introduce a resolution before the main AFL-CIO convention next week to urge a national work stoppage.

The Pay Board Monday announced a general 5.5 per cent wage hike limitation and ruled out retroactivity in most cases for pay hikes frozen since Aug. 15. The five industry and five public members of the board outvoted the five labor members, including AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meanwhile, AFL-CIO leaders were split over whether to quit the Pay Board or stay on it and fight its ruling on Phase 2 wage increases and deferred pay boosts.

Appeal To Gilligan Over Pay Checks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Civil Service Employees Association appealed to Gov. John J. Gilligan Tuesday to insure that state employees will receive their paychecks next Friday.

The payroll, due on Nov. 12, is for employee services during the last two weeks of October.

The association noted that unless the biennial budget or another interim budget is passed and signed into law within the next two days, funds will not be available to meet the payroll Friday.

Toledo In Bowl Rematch With William & Mary?

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo, already assured of a third straight Tangerine Bowl appearance, seems headed for a rematch with William and Mary in the post-season football classic.

William and Mary, a 40-12 loser to the Rockets last Dec. 28 at Orlando, Fla., has stepped ahead of Richmond in the Southern Conference title race. The Citadel upset Richmond last week to knock the Spiders into second place at 3-1 to William and Mary's 4-0 record.

The two meet Nov. 20 in a showdown for the title and accompanying Tangerine berth. Toledo, even if it should lose its final conference game at home Nov. 20 to Kent State, would match Bowling Green's 4-1 Mid-American record and the Rockets beat the Falcons 24-7.

Around Ohio:
Northern Illinois Coach Jerry Ippoliti after his team's loss to Toledo:

"Catching Chuck Ealey is like chasing a leaf on a windy day. I consider him the greatest quarterback in the country. If he isn't, I'd like to see the greatest."

Four non-conference victories last week gave the Mid-American a 20-5 record in outside games this season. The conference has a 39-15-1 non-league record in 1970 and 1971.

Kent State's 21-0 blanking of Marshall last week was the Golden Flash's first shutout since beating Northern Illinois 35-0 in the 1967 opener.

Miami sophomore Bob Hitchens needs 176 yards against Kent Saturday to establish a single season rushing record for the Redskins. With 888 yards in eight games, he already is No. 4 among alltime Miami rushers.

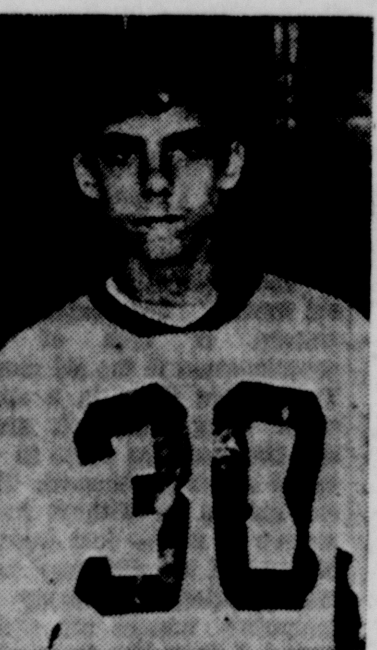

Ohio Wesleyan, Baldwin-Wallace and Ashland, along with Luther, Iowa, and Mommouth Ill., are schools being considered for the Stag Bowl Thanksgiving Day in Chicago. The contest is for the Western college division II title.

The NCAA selection committee, chaired by Muskingum Athletic Director Ed Sherman, was to conduct a conference call today on the subject.

Player Predicts World Cup Victors Need 4-Under-Par

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player sloshed around PGA National Golf Club and predicted "a four-under-par total will win on the longest, toughest course ever to host the World Cup."

The Johannesburg mini-brute is paired with Harold Henning for Thursday's teoff featuring two-man entries from 46 nations in team and individual competition.

"Scores will be the highest in World Cup history," said the 34-year-old Player. "You'll see a lot of rounds in the 80s, a few in the 90s and maybe some even higher."

The Player-Henning team

won the World Cup for South Africa in 1965.

The 6,096-yard east course is water-logged from recent rains and Player said Tuesday that the fluffy Bermuda grass in the rough "is much tougher than it was for the PGA championship."

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the PGA in February, was sleeping off the drain of a 31-hour flight from Australia. His lakeside home is only 10 minutes from the course.

Nicklaus is the U.S. representative along with U.S. Open king Lee Trevino. "The U.S. is the unquestioned favorite," said Player. "Nicklaus on a good day is unbeatable, and he's been playing awfully well."

While Trevino was virtually locking up the money title on the $7 million American tour, Nicklaus was capturing the less-profitable events on the international prestige trail in Australia.

Player and Nicklaus were flying companions on the Monday journey from Sydney that included stops in the Fiji Islands, Hawaii, Dallas and Atlanta.

LEHS Reserves Invited To 'Kettle Bowl'

The Logan Elm and Adena reserve football teams will meet 1 p.m. Saturday in the annual "Kettle Bowl" at Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

During the year many of the Scioto Valley Conference reserve football teams play their games at the institute's athletic field.

Following the season, the two best teams are invited back for a final exhibition game for the inmates. The field is at the south end of the reformatory and fans may watch the game from outside the fence.

Joe Torre 'Most Valuable' In NL

By PAUL LeBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Over the years I think it's gone to the right player," said Joe Torre, who Tuesday climaxed an 11-season major league baseball career with his selection as the National League's Most Valuable Player.

But, Torre added, "to win it so overwhelmingly is a surprise. You definitely think about it; you know that the voting is done as soon as the season's over. I had a feeling I'd get it."

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound Torre, only the third baseman to win the award, also became the 10th St. Louis Cardinal to snare an honor Stan Musial won three times.

His margin over runnerup Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the majors' home run king, was 318-222 in balloting points by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Torre received 21 of the committee's 24 first-place votes, Stargell polling the other three. Third place went to the Atlanta Braves' inveterate Hank Aaron. "What hurt Stargell in the voting, I think, was that it was tough to single out a player on Pittsburgh's ball club," the 31-year-old Torre said.

"I never considered this kind of year," said Torre, who batted .363 to lead the majors and had 137 RBIs, 230 hits and 352 total bases for other leading marks.

"There is more than one reason for why it happened, I think, but the only thing I was conscious of that was different from any other year was concentration."

"I've never had this kind of concentration," said Torre, who hit safely in 133 of 161 games in which he played. "I think the reason is that I got away from catching. You don't realize it until you get away from it that catching takes so much away."

An All-Star catcher while with the Atlanta Braves eight seasons, Torre called his 1969 trade to the Cards while involved in a salary dispute "like being reborn."

Forecaster Predicts Auburn Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's look-ahead time in the college football world with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Michigan and Alabama all undergoing final tune-ups before their biggest games of the season. But it's NOW time for Auburn and Georgia.

Those Southeastern Conference titans, two of the nine unbeaten teams in the land, clash at Athens, Ga., in a game that will go a long way not only in deciding the SEC champion, but a couple of bowl berths, as well.

Both teams will be in post-season action somewhere. The loser will drop out of contention for the national championship, which will probably be decided in the Orange or Sugar Bowl, but may wind up in the Cotton Bowl.

The Georgia defense has chalked up four shutouts in the last eight games and allowed only seven points in each of the four others. But they haven't faced a quarterback who's having the kind of year Auburn's Pat Sullivan is having.

None of Georgia's previous opponents is in the Top Twenty. Auburn survived a 10-9 scare at Tennessee earlier in the season. Buoyed by the knowledge that the big SEC games—Auburn at Tennessee, Alabama at Louisiana State—have gone to the visitors, one shaky vote is cast for ... AUBURN.

Nebraska at Kansas State—Next ... Oklahoma. The Cornhuskers throttled Iowa State 37-0 last Saturday and now go after K-State's Dennis Morrison, passing effort, NEBRASKA.

Kansas at Oklahoma—Next ... Nebraska. The Sooners were held to 20 points by Missouri, but Kansas has been jolted for 30 by Florida State, 38 by Minnesota, 55 by Nebraska, 40 by Iowa State and 35 by Colorado. OKLAHOMA.

Miami, Fla. at Alabama—Next ... Auburn. And coming off the dramatic conquest of LSU, this would be the perfect time for a letdown, especially as ace runner Johnny Musso sidelined. But Bear Bryant doesn't have many letdowns. ALABAMA.

Bucks Top Phoenix Suns In Close Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Phoenix Suns scared the daylight out of the Milwaukee Bucks, but the National Basketball Association champions prevailed in a fierce struggle that seemed like a playoff game in March.

"Phoenix played a fantastic game, they really wanted this one," said Milwaukee coach Larry Costello Tuesday night after the Bucks had pulled out a 118-113 victory after trailing by seven points at 97-90 early in the last quarter.

It took a 44-point performance by Kareem Jabbar and two key steals by Lucius Allen and Bob Dandridge in the last minute with the Bucks ahead 115-113 for the NBA champions to win their 16th straight on their home court. The score was tied 14 times and the lead changed hands 10 times.

The Golden State Warriors whipped Houston 115-99, Los Angeles downed Chicago 122-109 and Buffalo defeated Portland 109-100 in the other NBA games scheduled.

"The Suns hustled, hit the open man and had an awful lot of layups, particularly in the third quarter," Costello commented.

As for Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Phoenix coach, he said, "Jabbar takes all the fun out of coaching for me. Here we screen, we pick, we pass and all they have to do is throw it to the big safety valve and he drops it in."

"Over in Atlanta they thought I was a home run hitter," noted Torre, who in 1966 slugged 36 home runs. "I changed when I came over here. A good deal of it had to do with the ball park."

With the Cards, Torre has had RBI totals of 101 in 1969, 100 in 1970 and the 137 of last season, a high total for the club since Johnny Mize equaled the figure in 1937.

Another key to his upswing in batting, he said, was a water diet responsible for the loss of 25 pounds in his playing weight during spring training in 1970. "It made me quicker," he said. After surging to a .325 batting mark in 1970, Torre was rewarded with a contract for the 1971 season calling for an estimated $115,000.

Aspromonte Faces Task Of Turning Indians Around

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ken Aspromonte, former Cleveland Indians player and a manager in the Tribe's farm system, has been given the task of trying to turn the Indians around after one of the most dismal seasons in the team's history.

Aspromonte was named manager of the Indians Tuesday at a reported $27,000 salary. He succeeds Johnny Ligon, who was not rehired after finishing the season for Alvin Dark who was fired July 30.

"Any club that lost as many games as the Indians did last season is bound to be down," said Aspromonte. "We're going to work hard on morale and on motivation...to get the players thinking right again."

The new manager said he plans to spend a lot of time over the winter traveling around the country to talk to members of the team.

The 40-year-old Aspromonte said he is aggressive "and I expect my players to be just as aggressive. I like to win. I have a phobia about losing."

Aspromonte said he "can be tough" and promised a strenuous spring training program starting Feb. 28 at Tucson, Ariz.

"It's going to be known in spring training that this will not be a country club anymore, and that everybody will have to fight for his job," the new manager said.

"We're going to work hard...We're going to set up a physical program that will include a lot of running and a lot of work on fundamentals."

He promised to get his players "so tired they won't want to play golf when the workouts are finished."

The Indians lost 102 games this past season. The only other Indians team to do that badly was the 1914 squad, which lost the same number.

Tribe President Gabe Paul had been looking for a new manager since Oct. 13. He had tried unsuccessfully to lure Dave Bristol, manager of the Milwaukee Brewers, to Cleveland before turning to Aspromonte.

Aspromonte played for the Indians from 1960 to 1962 and also played for the Washington Senators, Los Angeles Angels, Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee Braves and Boston Red Sox during a major league career that extended from 1957 to 1963.

He ended his playing career with the Taiyo Whales of Japan in 1966.

He has managed Tribe farm clubs the last four seasons. His 1971 Wichita team finished third in the American Association's Western Division.

Siemon Is Selected Top College Lineman

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jeff Siemon was in on 17 tackles Saturday as Stanford defeated UCLA 20-9 and clinched its second straight Pacific-8 championship and the Rose Bowl berth that goes with it.

"So what else is new? "We expect him to get 17 tackles every week," says Coach John Ralston. "He's never had a bad game."

This, however, was one of Siemon's better ones and it earned the 6-foot-2, 233-pound linebacker from Bakersfield, Calif., honors as The Associated Press' national college Lineman of the Week. Siemon's tackles included a number of third-down stops that forced UCLA to punt.

Snidow To Start For Browns Sunday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns Head Coach Nick Skorich was named veteran defensive end Ron Snidow to start Sunday against the Kansas City Chiefs in place of second-year man Joe "Turkey" Jones.

Top MAC Contenders Selected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Miami of Ohio performers were among a trio honored today as Mid-American Conference football players of the week.

Chosen by a panel of writers were halfback Bob Hitchens and middle guard Don Krause, both of Miami, and Bowling Green halfback Paul Miles.

Miles, a 190-pound sophomore from Paulding, Ohio, gained 145 yards against Texas-Arlington to push his season's rushing total to 1,021 yards.

Hitchens, a 195-pound sophomore from Grove City, Ohio, who tied Miles for MAC offensive honors, galloped for 159 yards in 37 rushes against Western Michigan.

Krause, a 205-pound senior from Hamilton, Ohio, was credited with 13 solo tackles and four assists in the Redskins' 7-6 verdict at Western Michigan.

Other players considered were Tommy McDonald and Jeff Murrey of Kent State, Al Benton and Burt Dampier of Ohio University, John Niezgoda and Chuck Ealey of Toledo and Keith Pretty and Ed Schroeder of Western Michigan.

CAN'T CATCH A COLT — Baltimore running back Tom Matte crashes over the four-yard line to score a touchdown in the first period of game with Los Angeles. Coming up too late to stop the play are the Rams' Phil Olson, 72, and another, unidentified defender. Matte scored another touchdown on a 24-yard run in the final period as the Colts beat the Rams, 24-17.

Home Furlough For Inmates In Connecticut Successful

By DON FITZHUGH
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Some 900 Connecticut prisoners have participated in a furlough program over the past two years without an escape attempt. Because of this the program has been expanded.

"We initially said the home visits were limited to men who were within 60 days of their release, and most of them came from various community release programs," said Deputy Correction Commissioner Raymond M. Lopes.

"But we now have directed institutions to grant furloughs to everyone who is considered a minimum risk individual," he added. "There are no particular offenses that would make a man ineligible, though we would take a long, hard look at, for instance, the aggressive sexual offender."

The program is in effect at all state correctional facilities. Lopes said that since it was inaugurated in December 1969, not only have none of the inmates failed to return, but only one man was arrested and his case was not prosecuted.

The furloughs generally are for two or three days.

"During the first year, there was a big snow storm and many of the men couldn't make it back," Lopes said. "Most of them turned themselves in to the nearest corrections facility."

Basic decisions about who will get a furlough are made at individual institutions, which then forward them to Lopes for final approval.

While on furlough an inmate is limited to a specified town and the local police are notified, Lopes said.

The good comes in smoothing out marital problems and when a prisoner is looking for a job prior to release, he added.

"In many situations, we've had men who had marital problems, which were compounded when he wasn't at home," Lopes explained. "By being home for a short time, he has an opportunity to cement his marriage."

In order to be paroled, a prisoner has to have a job and a place to live and the furloughs give them a chance to seek employment.

Lopes is philosophical about the chance of the program's record going unscarred.

"There is no question that we will have a failure at one point," he said. "But the good would outweigh the possible danger. Hopefully this will make him better prepared to return to the community when he is eventually released."

Humorist - Pianist Borge Writes An Opera Book

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Borge, who makes humorous asides off stage as well as on, steps out of a Plaza Hotel elevator, saying to the elevator man, "It was a lovely trip," and to the reporter who has come to interview him, "That was the 3 o'clock elevator."

The humorist-pianist is being interviewed because, at 62, he has written his first book. It's called "My Favorite Intermissions," but it isn't an autobiography stressing intermissions of Victor Borge concerts. It's a series of biographies of opera composers, recounted with humor, Borge style.

Borge says he showed the manuscript to a lot of friends and relatives and their most usual reaction was that he'd made it up. He was astonished. "I had to write an introduction saying nothing is made up. Absolutely anybody can look it up. Otherwise the book would be a swindle."

"Fact is better than fiction, and often more funny. These composers, let their genius be one thing, that is a thing that none of them have deserved; it was there, like hair is growing."

"But outside of that they were just human beings and did the same stupid things the way anybody else does. I think when you read the book it will say that some of them were not very different from people we know and ourselves, except of course they had genius."

"The book is intended for entertainment and after it entertains you it also informs you. You don't have to know the first thing about music to read it, either. I think musicians will like it, as they always get an extra something out of my performances because the music is familiar to them that I make travesties of. But you don't have to know one note from another."

Borge does about 100 concerts a year, including doing things like trying to play the "Minute Waltz" in under a minute. He says, "It's always a tremendous lift when you see a sea of people who welcome you warmly. It's the same feelings when children approach you to see what you have in your pocket or your bag, a surprise for them. An audience also must not be disappointed."

Borge still is remembered for another project of about eight years ago, his rock cornish hens.

"I got a kick out of developing this business. But I looked one day and saw those little birds and it looked like mass murder and this struck me as strange because I basically was bringing laughter and happiness and well-being to people. I didn't like to come home and kill. I don't condemn the processing of food, but for me it wasn't necessary. It started out as a hobby. Then it got so big I had to choose which direction I wanted to take," Borge chose music and laughter.

Borge was a piano prodigy in his native Denmark. The famous Russian pianist Benno Moiseiwitsch once said after hearing him, "With his touch, he can play for God."

Humor entered in, starting when Borge, at 14, winked from the piano bench at a couple of nervous women in the front row, and the audience laughed. By the time the Nazis entered Denmark, Borge was well known as a pianist-humorist, in concerts and movies. He arrived in America in 1941 and learned English as quickly as possible so he could resume his career here.

"I don't consider myself a writer," he says about the new book, "I consider myself a musician. But I worked hard on it. Every sentence was painstakingly created to reflect the way I would say it. I know my technique in the respect of talking. And writing I tried to do like music, where every note has value and every bar is where it belongs."

Van Lier Traded By Cincy Royals

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Royals Coach Bob Cousy said Tuesday night that the trade sending guard Norm Van Lier to the Chicago Bulls would probably come back to haunt him, but he needed help at center.

The Royals got 6-foot-10 center Jim Fox and a future draft choice in the deal.

"I'm afraid of all the players that we've traded, with his (Van Lier's) competitive spirit, he's going to come back and hurt us more than any other," said Cousy.

Mitchell Honored As College Back

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Who inspires Lydell Mitchell, the Penn State record breaker?

"Myself," answered Mitchell on a questionnaire last summer for the athletic department. "I have a lot of pride that makes me work hard. But I want to keep getting better."

The 200-pound running back seems to be fulfilling his goal.

In the Nittany Lions' 63-27 victory Saturday over Maryland, Mitchell ran the ball 24 times, gained 209 yards, scored five touchdowns and broke or eclipsed six Penn State records.

For his performance, Mitchell, who admits he looks more like 35 than 22 because of a deep receding hairline, was named College Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

Nab Fugitive Of 6 Years

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — After living in Cleveland the past six years and holding a steady job, Clement Dudley Jr. is going back to Alabama — to finish out his prison sentence.

Dudley, 30, left for Alabama Tuesday night on the order of Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court Judge George White. There he will serve the remaining 22 months of a prison sentence for grand larceny.

His crime involved the theft of $276 of clothing from an Alabama clothing store.

Dudley had been sought ever since he walked away from a road gang Jan. 25, 1965. He was identified by a deputy sheriff from Alabama through a picture and fingerprints taken here after he was arrested for the burglary of a state liquor store.

Judge White dismissed that charge at the request of Assistant County Prosecutor Timothy Cotner.

Steve Kiner Wins Defensive Laurels

NEW YORK (AP) — The New England Patriots were trailing Houston with five minutes left and needed a big play. So, linebacker Steve Kiner made two of them in a performance that made him The Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Kiner was named today over safety Bill Bradley, whose heroics helped earn the Philadelphia Eagles a surprising 7-7 tie with Washington Sunday.

Select Brockington For Offense Honors

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — John Brockington, The Associated Press' Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League, has a simple but irrefutable approach to the game.

"If you're running slow, you get hit; and if you're running fast, you're going to get hit; so you might as well run fast and hard," said Brockington, the Green Bay Packer rookie who rushed for 142 yards in 30 carries to spark a 17-14 victory over the Chicago Bears Sunday.

Brockington, the Packers' top draft choice, has three 100-or-more-yard games this season and 602 yards total for a brilliant 5.28 - yard-per-carry average. He has a shot at both rookie of the year and membership in the exclusive 1,000-yard club.

Here's A Witch Tale From St. Peter Port

ST. PETER PORT, Guernsey (AP) — Those stone blocks sticking out of the walls of some of the old houses in Guernsey are not evidence of faulty workmanship — they're witches' seats.

The old folk on this British Channel Island off the coast of France knew that witches got tired on their flights around the island and needed somewhere to rest.

Householders who did not provide these handy seats were likely to incur the witches' anger. If they found nowhere to perch when they were weary, the witches would go into the houses and create havoc.

Brazilian Lunch Officials See Teays Valley System

SPANISH CLASS — Highlight of the six Brazilian school lunch officials tour of Teays Valley High School and Scioto School Wednesday.

Valley High School Wednesday was a visit to a second level Spanish class. There, the Brazilian VIP's chatted with students and told them of their native Brazil.

Six Brazilian school lunch officials toured the Teays Valley High School and Scioto School Wednesday.

They are in the United States to study how Americans administer and conduct school lunch programs. The group arrived in Washington Oct. 28 for a six-week visit to learn about school lunch operations at the Federal level and on state and local levels in Ohio, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Puerto Rico.

The Brazilians' visit is sponsored by the State Department's Agency for International Development, popularly called AID. The American AID program in Brazil assists this largest of all Latin American countries in a number of programs for improving agriculture, food supplies and nutrition. Programing and arrangements for the Brazilian visit are under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which coordinates the U.S. program — especially those complex aspects of allotting food supplies resulting from agricultural surpluses in this country.

Brazil has several special interests in the American program, partly the fact that some of their food supplies for school lunches come from U.S. food shipments into their country under the Food for Peace program. They get such products as American nonfat-dry milk, bulgur, cornmeal, wheat flour and vegetable oil under this program, which provides for payment in Brazilian currency (cruzeiros) instead of American dollars.

ALSO, the Brazilians need special help in administrative aspects of school lunch — how Federal and state programs relate to each other, how all this is financed, on what basis supplies are allotted to each state and community. The school lunch program in Brazil is considerably newer than the U.S. program. The U.S. feeds some 24 million school-age children through the program, the Brazilians some 10 million. Both countries aim at getting nourishing food to needy children.

The Brazilians are also studying American food and nutrition standards, school kitchen equipment and menu planning.

They are accompanied by Mrs. Linda Ross of the Indiana state school lunch program, who is acting as their technical leader. Their interpreter is Mrs. Lina Sattamini.

The Brazilians are Mrs. Santamini, Mrs. Ascley Trinta, Miss Maria Louisa Pontes, Mr. Altmar Jacques, Mr. Voltaire Kiberra, and Miss Maria Augusta Nascimento.

State lunch officials accompanying them on their tour are Mrs. Mary Wadell and Mr. Robert Melick.

Although primarily interested in lunch programs, the group asked for a tour of the Teays Valley school.

THEY dropped in on a second year Spanish class taught by Mrs. Bendycki to chat with students. Though Portuguese is the traditional language of Brazil, Spanish is the secondary language of the country.

They also received tours of the library and auditorium.

Lake Fingerlings Indiana Specialty

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Edgar D. Whitcomb and state budget officials have assured a continued supply of baby salmon and trout to be placed in Indiana streams flowing into Lake Michigan.

Michigan, which had been supplying the fingerlings, had advised that it could not do so after this winter.

The governor and budget officials approved spending $955,000 in fish and game funds for two new fish hatcheries, the State Department of Natural Resources disclosed today.

CHAT — After the bell rang in the Spanish Class, several students remained behind to find out more about Brazil from one of the six Government workers here to view American school lunch programs.

PRESENTATION — One Brazilian ambassador presented Mrs. Mary Lynn Bendycki, Spanish teacher, a Brazilian banner to fly in her room. The Brazilians stopped in Mrs. Bendycki's class to talk with students during their tour of the Teays Valley High School and cafeteria.

Import Tax Money-Raiser; $99 Million In 45 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10-per-cent import surcharge is proving to be a productive money-raiser, bringing $99 million into the Treasury in its first 45 days of life, it has been learned.

The surcharge might have brought in much more had the government not exempted about $1.5 billion worth of imports either en route to the United States or tied up by a dock strike when President Nixon imposed the levy Aug. 15.

The administration has officially estimated the surcharge would bring in about $2.1 billion in revenue if maintained on imports for an entire year. The surtax applies only to dutiable imports not covered by mandatory quotas.

The $99 million collected from Aug. 16 to Sept. 30 falls short of that estimated annual pace, possibly because of the huge one-time exemption on imports in transit and because of the uncertainty that followed imposition of the tax.

Officials say the uncertainty may have caused some importers to hold back on shipments until it was cleared up.

The Treasury plans to release after this week a breakdown showing that the surtax by itself is hardly enough to achieve the $13-billion balance-of-payments-deficit turnaround sought by the Nixon administration. The administration has said the surcharge will be lifted when there are assurances the deficit can be erased.

But it is proving a powerful economic tool, collectable quickly, and apparently achieving its purpose of boosting the lion for the party's war chest. The symbolic inaugural of Nixon's re-election campaign was underscored by Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the Republican national chairman, who appeared with him both in New York and Chicago.

Nixon . . .

"This will be our launching pad," said Dole, who predicted the GOP theme next year would be "peace and prosperity."

Nixon referred to the series of dinners as "the biggest event of its kind" to be sponsored by either major political party in a nonelection year.

The President, however, soft-pedaled partisanship, except when chiding the Democratic-controlled Congress, and talked about a nonpartisan agenda for the country.

His defense of foreign aid was more pointed in New York perhaps because he departed frequently from his notes in the two cities he visited.

In New York he said: "There are no constituencies for foreign aid. We know that. But let us recognize this: If the United States at this particular time should determine that it will discontinue its programs of mutual assistance for countries abroad . . . it can only mean that the world will become much more unstable, that the dangers of war in the world will greatly increase and that the United States will no longer be a world power."

About 1,400 attended each of the dinners at which Nixon spoke.

All paid the same $500 a head and, as comedian Hope put it, "it takes a heap of giving to make a White House a home."

Murdoch, however, argued the logical starting point for discussion was on the Gilligan administration's final income tax offer of several weeks ago, with some modifications.

The modified version, the so-called Taft-Flannery measure because of new language authored by Sen. William Taft, R-26 Cleveland, and Rep. James Flannery, D-48 Cleveland, contains a personal earnings tax of from one-half to 4 per cent, and corporate taxes of 4 or 8 per cent, with the cutoff line at $15,000.

Gov. John Gilligan called it the only "viable alternative."

Gilligan, who cancelled his trip to the Appalachian Governors Conference in Atlanta today because of "apparent proximity of action on the budget," said House refusal to adopt the sales tax "reaffirms even more clearly what we have said all along — that a sales tax is simply not an acceptable method of raising the money we need to solve the problems confronting us."

King, former Senate minority leader, a persistent critic first of an income tax, then of the sales tax proposal, conceded the Taft-Flannery bill was probably "the best we can get under the circumstances."

Republicans following Tuesday's vote blasted King and the Gilligan administration for failing to get together on what they want.

Booze Freeze Accord Noted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The price of some brands of liquor are being reduced 12 cents to 70 cents a case to comply with the federal wage-price freeze.

But per-bottle prices will not change under an agreement reached by state and federal officials.

State Liquor Director Richard Guggenheim said he and Kenard Gardner, regional director of the U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness in Chicago, worked out a "pretty sensible" agreement to clear up confusion about Ohio's liquor prices.

Under the pact, the state liquor department will reduce the full case price on 135 items to the prices in effect on May 25, 1970. Guggenheim said this is the number of items on liquor shelves that are selling for more today than they did 18 months ago.
